KOWLOON CANTON RAILWAY

THE RED BOGEY

And Upholders Of Democracy

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Sept. 3.

There is something rather ludicrous in the spectacle of those great upholders of democracy Britain and the United States, the arch-destroyer of democracy Italy, and a little hanger-on of the Fascist group, Latvia, simultaneously complaining to the Soviet Government about the speeches made at the Communist Congress. Mr. Roosevelt's intervention is easily understood; his country has, towards Communists, illiberal traditions; anti-Communism is a sort of mania; and there is reason to suspect that if he chooses to get indignant at the boasts of Mr. Earl Browder in Moscow it is because he thinks it good politics not to appear (at the moment) too Radical. Mussolini protests as a matter of cynical form. But Sir Samuel Hoare ought to have more sense of proportion. It is a little childish after all these years for the Foreign Office to rediscover the Communist International. It is merely silly to protest because Communist leaders have been saying that the great task of British politics is to get rid of the National Government. Other people besides Communists would also say that. It would have been more sensible if Lord Chilton had been instructed to congratulate the Soviet Government on its wisdom in noticeably withdrawing the extent of its support of the Communist International on its surprising change of policy. The speeches at the Moscow Congress show clearly that Communism is on the defensive. It has ceased to promise a world revolution round the corner, and is concerned only (like the British Government) to avert Fascism.

NEW NOTE

It is a new note in Communist history to hear (in the words of Comrade Wilhelm Pieck, who opened the Congress) that "it is not a matter of indifference to us 'what political system exists in this or that capitalist country' and that 'we Communists fight with might and main for every scrap of democratic liberty.' Sir Samuel Hoare may be as sceptical as the British Labour party itself about the sincerity of these new friends of democracy, but if he does not allow himself to be swayed by old prejudices he will recognise that the change in Communist policy is in keeping with the changed foreign policy of the Soviet Union. No longer is money being poured out lavishly to create independent 'mass' Communist parties in every country. The flow of subsidies trickles meagrely, and the Communist parties are bidden to co-operate with their ancient enemies, the Social Democratic parties. How the Socialist parties take the overtures of their would-be allies is another matter, and not the issue. But even the most suspicious of them would admit that in the present state of Europe not Communism but something much more evil is the enemy. If one wanted to find an admission of the inefficiency and bankruptcy of organised Communism, one need go only to the resolution of the International itself. This declared that in so many countries methods of agitation and propaganda have been abstract and 'little accessible to the masses,' and, enunciated a whole litany of 'serious shortcomings'.

UNITED FRONT

The belated carrying out of the tactics of the united front; the inability to mobilise the masses around partial demands, political as well as economic in character; the failure to realise the necessity of struggling in defence of the remnants of bourgeois democracy; the failure to recognise the necessity of creating an anti-imperialist People's Front in the colonial and dependent countries; neglect of work in reformist and Fascist trade

NEW WARPLANES

For The Air Force

Here are two items of air news which will affect the whole future of flying in this country:

1. Within four months the R.A.F. will be flying new warplanes capable of 300 miles an hour.

2. The first helicopter which can rise and descend like a lift from a street or roof is to be built at the Blackburn Airplane Company's factory at Brough, near Hull.

The great speed-up of the R.A.F. now in progress means the end of the obsolete machines that have been retained year after year in the Royal Air Force in the hope of disarmament abroad.

At least five squadrons are equipped with twelve-year-old bombing machines not capable of ninety m.p.h. These will be replaced with the new 300 m.p.h. bombers.

FLYING BACKWARDS

Existing five-year-old Fury intercept fighter types are being re-equipped with the new Kestrel VI 640 h.p. engine. This will increase the Fury's speed to about 250 m.p.h. The new helicopter is the invention of an Hungarian, M. Asboth.

These are some of the things it will do:-

Climb absolutely vertically at 1,500 feet a minute.

Hover or fly backwards, cruise at 120 m.p.h.

Seat two people, take 100 lbs. of luggage, and enough fuel to fly from London to Paris.

Descend at fifteen feet per second like a parachute.

It will have a 300 h.p. water-cooled engine amidships. This will work both propeller and rotors.

After a speed of about twenty-two miles an hour is reached the engine will be disengaged from the rotors. It will then turn the forward propeller.

GROUND 'SOUNDINGS'

After that the rotors will operate by air and, even should the engine fail, the machine will still descend like a parachute. The rotor blades will still function.

In fog when the ground is obscured the pilot can descend in "steps" by using the throttle. Opening it, he will ascend rapidly. Closing it gradually will result in a slow descent.

As in a ship he will be able to lower a rope to take "soundings" to locate the presence of high ground beneath him.

In war when hovering for observation the new helicopter would be able to escape the diving fighter by suddenly accelerating and climbing out of the way of the hail of bullets.

The Air Ministry have promised to buy one of these machines, if the tests are satisfactory.

ROUND THE SHOPS

Lane Crawford's are showing some really nice Autumn goods, just in time for the first Race Meeting to-morrow. Such pretty dresses, useful and smart suits, and as for the hats, really chic. You should pay them a visit and you will find everything there that you will need to look "just it" at the Races.

Maizee's have just received a big shipment of beautiful Winter and Fall goods. Lovely knitted suits in all colours, hats in the latest turban and off face styles, and plenty of dresses, especially an extra lot of out sizes.

Rivelle's have unpacked their new Winter goods and expect another shipment on Monday. There were some very pretty Evening Dresses on display. One model in Black and White with the new full sleeves was specially attractive.

Mayo's received by the last mail a new shipment of Fabric and Felt Hats, and the prices are most reasonable. Also they are showing some cute dresses.

Gordon's are having a clearance sale of American underwear by Van Raalte, most of these garments are this year's stock and are selling off very cheap.

A Middle-Aged woman lived in a lovely country home. She was unmarried. She had money and possessions. But she was unhappy. She craved the company of children. The laugh of a child in her house meant more to her than riches. As often as possible she had her young nephews and nieces to stay with her.

She went into the village to work for the children of the poorer folk, because that meant she would see them every day. Her friends' children came to stay. When they were in her house she was happy. But always came partings and sorrow.

All her invitations, and all her parties could not satisfy her longing.

So she has adopted a baby girl. One more lonely woman and one more lonely baby are lonely no longer.

Six little stories like this one, identical except that the names and the homes differ, are concealed by a figure in the report of the National Adoption Society, published yesterday.

Of the 367 children for whom the society found homes last year six have been mothered by leiser- ad spinsters.

In the case of an unmarried woman who wishes to adopt a child, the society first assure themselves that she has adequate private means, an official explained to me.

"We should not ordinarily consider an application from a business woman," he said, "as we are anxious for all our children to have home life. Generally, a woman who is out for most of the day could not give sufficient time to a child."

"One of our babies last year went to a husband and wife who were both doctors."

Many of the people who adopt children have modest incomes. Among them are railwaymen, omnibus drivers and conductors.

And the society counsel each new parent: "Always tell the child it is adopted."

Salmon Mis-steak

Diner: "This salmon isn't nearly so nice as that I had a week ago."
Waiter: "It should be, sir. It's from the same fish."

PARIS FASHIONS

Chanel And Marcel
Rochas

Autumn fashions are now being shown in the Rue de la Paix. Chanel is making well-tailored coat-frocks. The skirts are a little shorter and plain and slim. The bodices are fitted with long sleeves; there may be brass buttons and a black patent-leather belt. Some of these dresses are in speckled tweeds, others are in black, brown, or navy-blue wools. The same simplicity is seen in the coats and skirts with which go blouses of cotton crepe, knitted wool, light-weight tweed. Patch pockets trim both dresses and three-pieces.

Afternoon dresses are soft and womanly. There is one in black satin, finely machine pleated, fastened down the front with white and black buttons and with a belt of black patent leather caught together in front by a black and white glass buckle. A simple but becoming dress is of black crepe with a front yoke which runs into the full sleeves and gives a wide but gentle shoulder-line. A good deal of velvet is used by Chanel, both for day and evening. Bright rusty-brown and bottle-green are two colours with which Chanel works. Black velvet is used for the evening, the latest kind being one with a metal back which gleams brightly through the transparent pile. Velours Ecaille is another kind. There are some new metal lames and the lace designs are interesting.

Black velvet evening dresses are being made for the autumn by Chanel with spiral draperies edged with uncurled ostrich feathers. The backs of the bodices are cut low to the waist over skin-tight black net. Dresses of net and lace have shirred, shoulder straps. Capes matching dresses in colour and material are cut square and have finely ruffled edges. Net with metal threads running through it is used for the evening. A dress of black net embroidered with jet has a full-flounced skirt, a round-ed neckline in front, a low-cut back, and at the waist a bunch of pink roses. A geranium-red velvet dinner dress has the skirt stiffened at the hem by a founce of organ-pipe pleats; with it is a grey squirrel cape lined with velvet. A gorgeous evening dress is of shaded pink georgette worked in narrow horizontal stripes of white and silver; a short cape goes with it. Chanel's clothes are broadly conservative in style.

BOLD COLOURING

Marcel Rochas uses coloured materials boldly — red, several shades of green, a great deal of purple, beige, mole-grey, brown and white, and some black. The wools are unusually heavy; tweeds, duvetyn and jerseys are roughly woven, and as a contrast there is a suave broad-cloth. He also uses suede and materials interwoven with bright threads. His styles are a little audacious.

There are tartan fallormades, sober in colour, daring in line. The jacket which goes with tailored skirts is quite new in line; from a straight yoke across the back of the shoulders runs fullness; this is held by a belt which crosses the back of the waist line only. The front may be either single or double-breasted. Frequently with these jackets it is a dress of the same material, not a skirt and blouse, which is worn. For example, a dark green woollen tweed dress has a lemon-yellow front to the bodice. Another, in navy-blue, has a red front. A belt may cross the back only or be carried to the front. With some of these tweed frocks a two-thirds or three-quarters length cape is worn. Leg-of-mutton and bishop sleeves are fitted to jackets and coats.

Rochas has also made a full jacket of white broadcloth with sleeves in black velvet and black velvet ribbon applied in vertical lines on the back and front of the jacket. This velvet trimming is also used in scrolls and curves on other jackets. Chenille fringes and lattice work are among other trimmings. A sealskin coat has a yoke of bright blue broadcloth. For cocktail parties there are black velvet skirts with light or bright chiffon blouses and full back jackets of coloured tweed. With one skirt is put a blouse of pale blue chiffon and a jacket of Delit-blue tweed trimmed with vertical bands of black astrakhan and shirred pockets above the waist line in front. The collar and cuffs are of astrakhan.

Evening dresses fit tightly in the skirt. Bodices may be full. Afternoon skirts may also fit tightly. Belts are broad and fancifully cut out into geometrical designs, or decorated with clasps. Ribbon and fur are lavishly applied; tin flowers trim an evening dress, and loose-fitting lamé jackets worn with dinner dresses are of vivid colours.

AUTUMN HATS ARE KIND TO THE FACE

So far as it is possible to see at the moment there are two distinct and opposite trends for early autumn hats.

One consists of a definite forward tilt, usually over the right eye. The other is right back off the face and when it is a case of a turban or bonnet shape, a little of the hair line is also shown in the centre front.

Both lines are kind, and both are interesting. Of the two, the first is more frequently represented, as you will gather from those on display at the shops.

There are turbans in quantity, a few draped, but not the majority. Berets are of several kinds, but mostly full, like a mediaeval cap, and in lustrous fabrics like face cloth, velvet, and fur felt. Halo hats, usually in velvet, are in black or very sombre colours.

Then there are very neat and rather hard brimless caps: not too easy to wear, but curiously right for many modern profiles—and quantities of felts; some quite mad, but others as sane, as comfortable, and as easy to wear as anything we have put on our heads for some considerable time.

The turbans are not so often draped as the berets. They are usually very clean in line, and do extraordinarily nice things for the face.

The latest ones which really looks like two of the small brimless caps put together. The join is over the middle of the head, and the result is a delightful outline to the face, narrow at the sides and curving up to a point in the centre front which shows a fragment of sleekly parted hair or a feathery curl.

Deep, warm colours and deep, sombre colours may be alone or relieved with a delicate pastel or a slash of vivid red, orange or gold. These and the rich lustrous materials already mentioned are the stuffs from which our autumn hattings will be made.

Fur felt is likely to be popular for other things, too. It is particularly becoming, and looks most effective for collars. Antelope is another felt with a smooth surface, and there is a very shaggy new one which looks very warm, and therefore most appropriate to the colder months of the year.

Autumn STYLE SHOW

AUTUMN STYLE PREVIEW

Society In Los Angeles

Exquisitely sheer woollens that drape like silks, lustrous satins, metal crepes, crepes that are ribbed, and crepes that are sponged, plain and novelty velvets, are among the new fabrics. Together with the Renaissance-inspired costume details, the new Italian colours, such as 'schia, cardinal, and myrtle, enrich the choice for autumn ensembles.

Skirts are definitely enlarged, with formal wear demanding a complete swirl, while daytime models are content with the fullness swung forward. Return of the gore, which seems to develop hem circumference out of mere nothing, enables the modern streamline effect to compromise with complimentary lines.

Busts also reflect this flare for fullness. Some drape from the shoulders, and some are loosely stayed at the bodice to give comfort in fact as well as appearance.

Sleeves are full-blown, in keeping with the trend to fullness. Suggestive of the Elizabethan mode, they are tied at the wrist with pleats held in by clips or snaps.

Plain neckline severity has given way to frills, bows, and jabots. Although some décolletages are low and square, others follow the conservative V-shape pattern. Brooches and clips are much in evidence, both for utility and effect.

Belts are seen, of silver and gold kid, many ranging from two to five inches in width, thereby emphasizing slim waists.

Sportswear seekers could find velvet coats patterned after Italian artist's smocks lined in Roman-striped silks matched by flowing artist's ties. Myrtle green suits flare like Russian tunics, accented suggestive of the Elizabethan by fabric or fur collars rippling forward. One piece sports dresses in hand-loomed fabrics or brushed knits take advantage of huge umbra plaids and shadow checks in reversible combinations.

Popular acceptance is predicted for seven-eighth length swagger coats, with lines on the bias from a spine-line in the rear. Patch pockets set on diamond wise are featured, along with well seams to accentuate the lines.

While the Renaissance predominates street, sports, and afternoon wear, with its multitude of gathers and gores, a Grecian austerity, emphasizing grace of body lines more than grace of action, still pervades evening modes. However, rich colors and flowing lines of the Italian masters are not foreign to some of these shimmering creations.

In millinery, the Italian Renaissance

Molyneux is making evening coiffures. Flowers, feathers, ribbons, are set in little erections on the top of the head to be fastened by a band round it. There is something a little ceremonious about this fashion. A thought from the past, a herald of new things to come. There is a touch of ceremony about the new fashions which the new generation appears in like.

FORECASTING AUTUMN FASHIONS

Gail Patrick, appearing in Paramount's "Mississippi," wears a particular smart suit at the moment—a suit that forecasts the trend of Autumn fashions.

Carried out in powder blue wool crepe, it is trimmed with platinum fox and worn with grey suede gloves, shoes and bag. To complete the blue and grey colour scheme, Gail wears a grey stitched fabric hat with a perky little starched veil.

Two evening gowns worn by Miss Patrick show unusual design and colouring. One is in black and gold, with a train. Also long tight sleeves and a lavish embroidery of gold thread combine to add distinction to formality. A jacket of gold lame completes the ensemble.

Burgundy lace over satin is the motif of the other gown, and a wide scarf attached to the shoulders gives the model versatility. Gail will wear this gown in Walter Wanger's Paramount production, "Smart Girl," with Ida Lupino and Kent Taylor.

COMFORT AND STYLE

Created for comfort with more than a thought for style are the pyjamas which are Loretta Young's latest addition to her wardrobe.

Miss Young, who plays opposite Charles Boyer in Paramount's "Shanghai," has many pairs of lounging pyjamas, but these in soft, heavy satin are far and away her favourites.

The trousers are flame colour and the blouse is white with a trimming of flame coloured silk frogs from the neck to the hem. The sleeves are extremely full and graceful.

Miss Young also wears a beautiful evening gown in which silver metallic lace over white satin is moulded to the figure. A deep décolletage is held by dainty silver chains over the shoulders.

The skirt is outlined with a band of sable, and a coat of the white metallic lace completes the model.

BARLEY WATER FOR BEAUTY

For years doctors have testified to the health-giving properties of barley water. And this year, the experts who spend their time considering ways and means for the improvement and care of the complexion are recommending it strongly as one of the few shortcuts to the achievement of a clear skin.

It is especially valuable in hot weather, for its cooling properties prevent complexion troubles arising from overheated conditions.

A long drink of lemon barley water the first thing in the morning; another as a night-cap, and two or three more during the day will, when combined with reasonable external care of the skin, shorten time.

The old-fashioned method of making barley water from pearl barley took a good deal of time. The powdered barley shortened and simplified the proceeding, and now the firm responsible for the barley power I have in mind have produced a ready-made barley water and lemon water combined.

All you have to do to the preparation is to pour a little into a glass and fill it up with plain or soda water—not, if you are considering your beauty, iced. And there you are provided with a drink which has the blessing of both doctors and beauty specialists.

Out of Fashion

"The wasp waist is not likely to come back to favour," says a fashion writer. No, the modern girls refuse to be taken in.

I Know

"What is the lowest income on which a man can safely marry?" asks a correspondent. "At least $30 a month more than you're getting.—L.P."

THE ACTIVE WOMAN

And Luxury Clothes

Compromise is the word which describes most of the new fashions now ready for autumn and winter wear. The dress designers are trying hard to give to women clothes which they can wear in their very active lives and yet which admit of luxury.

Rich materials are used, bright colours, as well as dark. There is more than a touch of the picturesque in the fashions influenced by old Italian pictures, and there is something more than practical in the easy-to-wear coat frocks which look so nearly like the habit of a monk or a man's dressing-gown.

ANTELOPE

The figure behind shows a black antelope cape worn over this frock. This cape is one of the successes of this collection. There is also a black antelope, loosely fitting, little jacket which is going to England very shortly.

These antelope skin garments are most becoming; much more so than ordinary leather, particularly in black. They are so suave and pleasant, both to the eye and to the touch.

Among other things in the same collection is a light green kid blouse, thin as a glove and as supple.

The frilled neckline of the antelope cape is one which is frequently seen in blouses and on little dresses.

Such details correct the military styles which mark so many tailor-made and dresses this season. Epaulettes, braided fronts, springy basques, brass buttons—all these show clearly a military influence, but not one is allowed to dominate. Every stiff line is softened to fit the womanliness which is now the leading note in fashion.

You may say that the divided skirt and the trouser skirt are perilously near to the masculine.

Molyneux has the idea that women will like to wear bright gloves this autumn, so he is putting elbow length suede gloves, in such colours as blue, red, green and amber, with black evening frocks of crepe and velvet.

With simple dresses he puts the most magnificent furs of silver fox, mink, ermine, seal, and nutria. There is one silver-fox evening cape which reaches from shoulders to feet, the skins being used vertically.

Molyneux's velvet evening wraps are also luxurious being long and wide and in the most lovely colours. Shorter evening capes are in heavy white cloque crepe.

THE CRUSADES INFLUENCE

Travis Banton, Paramount designer, is creating more and more gowns on lines suggested by the 12th century clothes worn in Cecil B. DeMille's latest Paramount spectacle—"The Crusades" coming to the Queen's Theatre shortly.

He has just designed a beautiful model for Helen Mack, who appears in Paramount's "Four Hours To Kill." It consists of a long white robe, modelled in the utmost simplicity, with a brief shoulder cape of cardinal red velvet, and a gold, silken cord knotted around the waist. The hat which goes with the model is a tricorn in red-velvet and a tiny muff of dark mink skins adds a note of frivolity.

GOWNED IN YELLOW NET

Joan Bennett, who is featured in Paramount's "Private Worlds," "Mississippi" and "Two For To-Night"—the last two with Bing Crosby—is the envy of Hollywood with a charming new dinner frock.

The gown, carried out in yellow net, is on classic lines with the new shirred bodice and a detachable cape made of three pieces of net.

Across the bodice a half wreath of purple pansies add a striking colour contrast.

FRIVOLOUS EVENING GOWN

Frivolous and essentially feminine is a pink crepe informal evening gown worn by Ida Lupino, who is featured in Paramount's "Paris Love Song" and "Smart Girl."

Dainty pleated flouncing winds in a spiral fashion from the hem to the collar, while a cascade of pleating hangs gracefully from the left shoulder.

A gold studded belt and a cluster of gems on the bodice form the only colour contrast.

OVERCOAT FOR AUTUMN

The latest thing in the Autumn overcoats has just been designed for Grace Bradley.

It is in navy blue, is double breasted in style and has the extremely wide lapels that are going to be such a feature of Autumn styles.

Patou has made some of the loveliest evening dresses of the season. In different shades of mauve, purple, violet, he has used soft silk crepes. He drapes them in Greek lines, but in looped draperies which do not get out of place. They add to the slender outline of the figure and do not reveal any unfortunate lines.

No evening wraps have collars. They close simply under the chin with a jewel or a button.

SKIRTS

There are longer, tighter skirts, and for afternoon long skirts to the feet, worn with every kind of blouse, bolero or jacket you can think of. The skirts are usually black, and in velvet or satin, or broadcloth.

Sleeves are very important—long, full, wide, or tight-fitting. The shoulderline is wide but not hard. Necklines are high and collarless, or very elaborately draped, as at Jodelle's.

Brown is used everywhere. It lends itself to the monkish type of

Mainly About Shoes

To buy largely at the end of the season, too often means that you have bought nothing but regrets. Buying small, however, in the way of distinguished sundries, can easily mean creating an all-the-year-round appearance of well-thought-out chic which looks as if it had cost very much more than it has.

The two great S's, stockings and shoes, are most certainly worth concentrating on.

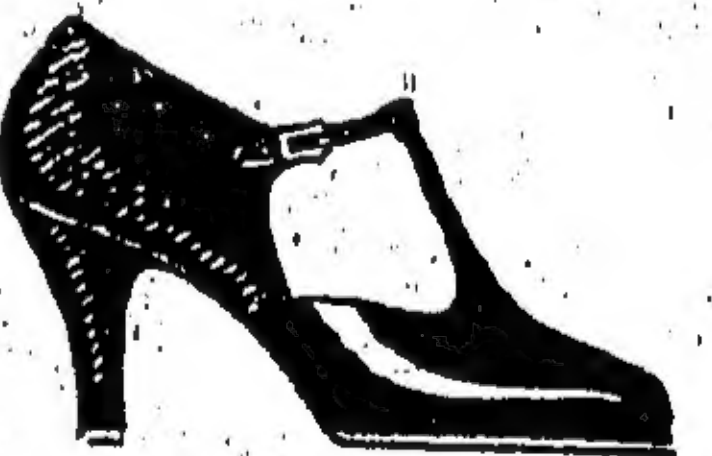

Designers are at last realising that, as women walk, so much water without high heels, and smile so much more easily if their feet are truly comfortable, it is just as well to provide reasonable footwear with good looks.

There are clever combinations of kid and suede, ingenious straps which give you support where you need it and contrive to make the foot look smaller at the same time. Square toes and round toes are both used; and you can choose between a long vamp which is carried well up on to the instep, and a very short one which leaves most of the foot exposed. The shape of your foot and the purpose for which you need the shoe are the determining factors.

SPORTS MODELS

There are some lovely new sports shoes. One of them is all medieval and romantic in appearance, owing to the fact that the upper is made all of one piece of leather; but essentially modern in comfort and balance. You can have it in navy blue with a red tongue; in beige with a brown tongue or vice versa, and in black with a white tongue.

Another has a slightly higher heel, still comfortably moderate. It is an excellent acquisition for summer weather because of the punching in mackerel bands which increases its coolness as well as its decorative effect.

MODERN HAIR-BRUSH

A modern amenity which can do a great deal to keep hair in good condition is the hairbrush with detachable bristles. These are set in rubber, in much the same way as in the hairbrush many of us have known and sworn by for years.

In this case, however, the rubber and bristles slip out of the back so that they can be washed every day if necessary, and without any danger of water collecting inside and doing damage.

Ebony or white woods, and blue, peach or green enamel, are all available, so that it should be easy to find one which will not quarrel with your other toilet things, and the price is very moderate.

CINEMA TRADE NOTICES

MAD LOVE

To Edward Brophy has fallen the toughest assignment a comedian ever had. He's had to try to get laughs out of a guillotine!

Brophy, who in the course of dozens of successful comedy roles has played everything from inept to wrestler, now finds himself cast as a sinister knife-thrower who jokes as he slays and in time is duly decapitated. He and Ted Healy, playing an American reporter, wisecrack before the guillotine and Brophy insists that "we all get it in the neck sometime."

This is one of the amazing roles in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's fantastic new horror drama, "Mad Love," which is playing at the Alhambra this week-end.

The new picture introduces to American moviegoers the sensational European star, Peter Lorre, who won the title of the "Charles Laughton of the Continent" because of his magnificent and individualistic performances in "M" and "The Man Who Knew Too Much."

WEREWOLF OF LONDON

A weird story produced and acted in a manner calculated to bring a maximum of thrills and chills. "Werewolf of London" maintains the horror pace set by universal comes to the Queen's Theatre this Sunday.

Fast moving with vivid action and dialogue plus nerve-tingling make-up changes building dramatic suspense, the show capitalizes the full entertainment value of its eerie premise. Hull and Oland are outstanding in difficult roles. The meagre romantic contrast is nicely carried by Miss Hobson and Matthews. The chief comedy relief is carried by gaggy Ethel Griffes and Zeffie Tilbury. Minor roles are filled by Clark Williams, Charlotte Granville, Spring Byington, J. M. Kerrigan, and Louis Vincent. The eerie writing quality of Robert Harris, who collaborated with Harvey Gates on the screen play, is expertly amplified by Stuart Walker's intelligent handling of the personnel and production backgrounds.

WALKED IN HER SLEEP

Into The River

Miss Sophia Louise Booth rose from her bed in King's Road, St. Margaret's, Twickenham, soon after midnight, put a flimsy dressing-gown over her nightclothes, and slipped quietly out of the house.

Less than half an hour later she was drowned.

She had walked more than a mile through the streets of St. Margaret's, it is believed, in her sleep.

No one had seen her. Her eighty-two-year-old mother, sleeping in the next room, had not heard her leave the house.

And in her sleep, apparently, she plunged into the Thames.

Two men fishing on the Surrey side of the river at 12.30 a.m. saw her pass beneath a lamp into the darkness beyond. A few moments afterwards there was a splash. A woman cried for help.

LOOKED AFTER MOTHER

They jumped into a boat, rowed across. They found Miss Booth's dressing-gown on the bank. An hour later police recovered her body.

Miss Booth, who was forty-seven, had looked after her mother since her father died four years ago. Lately she had suffered occasionally from absent-mindedness.

THE RIDDLE OF SKYE

Clue At Last?

A body thought to be that of Stanley Moore, the Sunderland bank clerk lost last May in the lonely Cullin Mountains, Isle of Skye, was found at Camasunary, twelve miles from the spot where his fiancée, who had been hiking with him, was discovered dead in a stream.

A party of islanders came across the body and sent it to Broadford, some miles away, for identification.

The search for Moore has been going on for three months. An unnamed woman in Edinburgh financed one expedition. Four hundred shepherds and crofters were mobilised and paid 11s. a day.

Bloodhounds were sent to Skye but failed to find trace of the missing man. Police co-operated with the searchers. Airplanes were used.

Water divers explored the mountain streams.

It was in vain—until this last search revealed the body.

Mr. Moore's fiancée, Miss Barbara Nicholson, was found dead last May at Viksgill Burn, five days after they had left on a hiking tour. She had died from head wounds and exposure.

But no trace of Moore could be found.

BARONESS OUT OF DANGER

"I Want To Go Home"

"I want to go home," said lovely Baroness Von Thyssen, and with those five words staggered Dr. Francisco Coll, two nurses, and other officials of the nursing home where she is a patient.

It was the first really coherent sentence she had been able to utter since the motor accident in which Prince Alexis Mdivani was killed.

It had been feared she might never speak properly again; feared she might lose her eye; feared she might not recover her mental balance.

Dr. Coll, speaking in French, said:—"Madame la Baronne is now quite out of danger. There is no fear of her losing her eye."

"She is speaking quite clearly, and seems to have got over any incoherence, except for a slight occasional stammer."

"She is now able to walk about a little in the nursing home grounds. She started to get up for half an hour at a time three days ago."

Because her mental and nervous condition is still very delicate the doctor has forbidden the 28-years-old baroness to have any visitors.

Even her 62-years-old husband has been told he should see her as rarely and for as short periods as possible.

A Hollow Sound

Little Betty and Junior had attended a talk by a returned missionary.

"What did he tell you about the heathens?" asked their grandma.

"Oh, he said that they were often very hungry, and when they beat on their tum-tums, it could be heard for miles."

Heard Before Somewhere

"Mothers should forget bridge. Husbands should come first in the home, then children. Daughters should not smoke. They should do housework. If a mother makes a real home, there will be fewer divorces."

CHARLIE CHAN IN EGYPT

The cast of Fox Film's latest mystery thriller, "Charlie Chan in Egypt," now playing at the King's Theatre, were discussing thrills in general and Director Louis King asked Warner Oland, who has the leading role in the film, if he had ever had any narrow escapes.

"The Greatest thrill in my life," replied Oland, "was of the 'close shave' variety and happened much faster than I can tell about it. The foreman of my Mexican ranch and I were in a canoe, paddling around Palmeto de la Virgen, the wild island on which the ranch is located.

"As we were slowly paddling past a high clay bank, we heard an odd slithering sound overhead. A huge cayman, which is a kind of crocodile, ran out of the undergrowth and dove into the water not three feet from the canoe.

"If he had upset us or taken a bite at us, it would have been just too bad, for that beast was about twenty-five feet long and stood at least five feet high. Fortunately, the cayman must have been as startled as we were, for his huge jaws could have crushed our canoe with one little bite and there might have been no more Charlie Chan!"

GOIN' TO TOWN

In her new starring Paramount film, "Goin' to Town," which comes on Saturday to the King's Theatre, Mae West undergoes the strange and eventful transition from a bronco-busting cowgirl to the sweetheart of society in Southampton, without losing her poise or her wise-cracking ability.

Mae West's adventures in "Goin' to Town," which presents her in modern clothes, and up-to-date settings, start way back in the cattle country when she inherits the money of a cattle baron, and decides to go after a handsome young Englishman on whom she had an eye for some time.

The pursuit of the Englishman, Paul Cavanagh, leads her to Buenos Aires where the exciting and humorous horse-racing se-

LEGONG

A unique conference was held in the preparations for the filming of "Legong," in which the father of the native South Sea Island girl, who plays the principal role, had to approve the film story before he would let his daughter play the part.

The Marquis Henri de la Palaise and Glass, producers of this all-Technicolor film which Paramount is now releasing, had selected their all-native cast for the picture, and were ready to announce the first call before the cameras, when they learned that the story had to be approved before their leading lady could be photographed.

The procedure was to go to the girl's father, and relate the story to him. This seemed a simple matter, and they willingly went to the house of the girl's father for the conference. When they arrived, there was a crowd of natives, there, and more people continued to come. Finally, when the house seemed to contain all the people of the village, the conference began.

The story was tediously gone over point by point with the girl's father consulting the villagers on their reactions to the story. Except for ritualistic inaccuracies, the story was heartily approved. The scenario was changed slightly to conform to the native ritual and was reconsidered by the group. The final approval was given, and the father then consented to let his daughter play the leading role in the film.

quences takes place. Then they go back to the States and Southampton, the stronghold of society.

Mae West marries a handsome young society man to attain position. But the efforts of fortune hunters and the jealousy of her rivals make things hot for her until Cavanagh returns to the scene to tell her that he had loved her all the time.

In addition to Cavanagh, Ivan Lebedeff, Tito Coral, Monroe Oweley, and Marjorie Gateson appear in the supporting cast of "Goin' to Town."

THE QUEEN'S

"Hat, Coat And Glove"

"Hat, Coat and Glove," featuring Ricardo Cortez, Barbara Robbins and John Beal, is the current attraction at the Queen's Theatre and because the picture is so different to the types that we have had lately, it is worth seeing.

Its unusual romantic triangle revolves about a lawyer, his beautiful wife and an adventurous artist. The lawyer challenges his rival by re-courting his own wife. He is losing the match when the artist is charged with murder of a girl found dead in his studio. Now the lawyer has the unique opportunity of deciding his rival's fate but the way in which he "rises to the occasion" wins back for him the love of his wife.

As the title would suggest a hat, coat and glove play very important parts in the picture which is heartily recommended—A.R.M.

SISTER AS SURETY

In Cheque Charges

A further remand was ordered West London Police Court when Lord Montagu, aged twenty-nine, a son of the Duke of Manchester, appeared on a number of charges concerning a cheque.

The charges against him are:—Stealing, between June 28 and July 16, 1935, a valuable security—a banker's cheque for £17 0s. 7d., the property of Mrs. Violet Van der Elst, of Addison-road, W.

Between June 28 and July 16, feloniously forging a valuable security—an endorsement on a banker's cheque drawn payable to Mrs. Van der Elst by David Cope, Ltd.—with intent to defraud;

On July 16, uttering, knowing the same to be forged, a certain forged document—a banker's cheque drawn payable to Mrs. Van der Elst by David Cope, Ltd.—with intent to defraud; and

One July 16, feloniously, and with intent to defraud, receiving certain moneys, £13, by virtue of a certain forged instrument, a cheque drawn payable to Mrs. Van der Elst by David Cope, Ltd., knowing the same to be forged.

At the first hearing Mr. H. A. Procter M.P., who appeared for Lord Edward Montagu, said that there was a perfectly good answer to the charges.

"NOT NEGOTIABLE"

When Mrs. Van der Elst was re-examined by Mr. Henri Pierron, prosecuting, she said that she paid the cheque into the bank on June 28 and had never endorsed any cheque for Lord Edward.

Mr. Pierron: If you were going to give the defendant a loan of £20, would you have done it by a bookmaker's cheque?—Of course I would not.

Mr. Roy Wakefield, of Denman-street, W., a club proprietor, stated that on July 16 Lord Edward asked him to change a cheque, and he agreed to do so.

They went to a bank, and his bank manager pointed out that the cheque was not negotiable, and that it was necessary that he should know Lord Edward very well. He said he did, and the bank manager turned the cheque over.

Lord Edward then produced a piece of paper with a signature on it similar to the one on the cheque. Mr. Wakefield said that he gave Lord Edward £25 and later sums of £25 and £25 and £25 were deducted from a credit.

Lady Louise Montagu, Lord Edward's sister, was now accepted as surety in the sum of £25.

HIDDEN IN HIS NOSE

Convict And £100 Gem

A £100 Diamond was hidden in a Dartmoor convict's nose for seven years. A warden "double-crossed" him and stole it. He was caught pawing it in Plymouth for £7.

The facts were revealed by ex-Detective Edward Bennett.

One day in 1927 the then Chief Constable of Plymouth, Mr. H. H. Sanders, sent for Detective Edward Bennett.

"I have just received a remarkable message over the 'phone from the Governor of Dartmoor," he said. "It appears that on going the rounds one morning a certain warden was approached by a convict, who, after saying that his seven-years sentence was up in a few weeks, surprised the warden by declaring that he had concealed on him a large diamond worth about £100."

The chief constable added that the convict suggested to the warden that he should take the diamond to Plymouth and sell it; and they would share the proceeds.

The convict then asked the warden to get him a two-inch nail, saying he had kept the stone concealed in his nose for seven years until it had actually embedded itself in the cartilage.

The warden probably saw that it was really a beautiful stone, but just as he was admiring it someone approached the cell; it was a principal warden.

The stone was hurriedly concealed by the warden, who, to make things appear as usual, admonished the convict for some imaginary infringement of the prison rules and left the cell with the remark, "Don't let it happen again or there will be trouble."

MOCK SEARCH

A few days later the same warden and the convict met. "What about my diamond?" asked the convict.

"Haven't you got it?" asked the warden.

The warden said he must have lost it when they were interrupted. He pretended to make a search for it in the cell and the convict joined him.

Then the convict, after consulting a fellow prisoner, and realising that he could not be further punished for the same theft, went to the governor and unfolded the whole story.

SHADOWED

"Now this is where you come in," said the chief constable to the detective.

"That warden has been given leave to visit Plymouth, and the governor wants him shadowed."

The rest of the story can be told in the words of ex-Detective Bennett as he told it to me.

No one answering the warden's description left the train at Mutley, the first stopping place at Plymouth, so I boarded the train, and alighted again at North Road. Still no luck, and I went on to Millbay, the terminus. Then I saw the man I wanted.

"YOUR NAME IS—"

"Eventually he walked into the shop of a dealer in diamonds not far from St. Andrew's Church.

THEIR BATTING SECRETS

Fry And Jardine

Two great cricketers—Commander C. B. Fry and Mr. D. R. Jardine—held a crowded audience of boys spellbound in the "Daily Express" Theatre recently.

For an hour and a half they gave away their batting secrets.

In his shirt sleeves, Commander Fry demonstrated at a wicket erected in the centre of the theatre exactly how he made the many thousands of runs that stand to his credit in first-class cricket.

"WATCH THE BALL!"

He patiently repeated over and over again every stroke and every stance, and summed up the art of batting in three or four sentences:—

"The first thing you have to get into your head is—I am going to watch the ball and trust my eye. 'Not one cricketer in eleven that I see playing first-class cricket really does that."

"If they did, they would be very much better batsmen, and we should sweep the South Africans and Australians off the board as Mr. Jardine did!"

You should have heard the boys—and quite a number of grown-up boys—too—cheer that! Then the way to hold a bat—"like a hammer, freely and naturally, forgetting that you have a right arm."

Next, the stance—both eyes facing the ball.

Finally, the strokes—"you only want to learn four: the drive, the backstroke, the cut, and the hook and you can leave out the hook till you have made a hundred or county cricket."

"BODY-LINE"

Commander Fry showed contemptuously how NOT to play back to a fast leg ball.

"That sort of play," he said, "produced the little phrase 'body-line bowling.'"

Mr. Jardine did not join in the boys' laugh, but he added his word: "Watch the ball—concentrate. I was twenty-eight years old before I learnt that I knew nothing about concentration."

"You must find that out for yourselves. If you have as much fun as Commander Fry and I have had in finding out things, you have many happy hours and very few regrets in front of you."

I was close on his heels. As soon as he left the shop I entered and asked the proprietor what the man had said. A diamond, I was told.

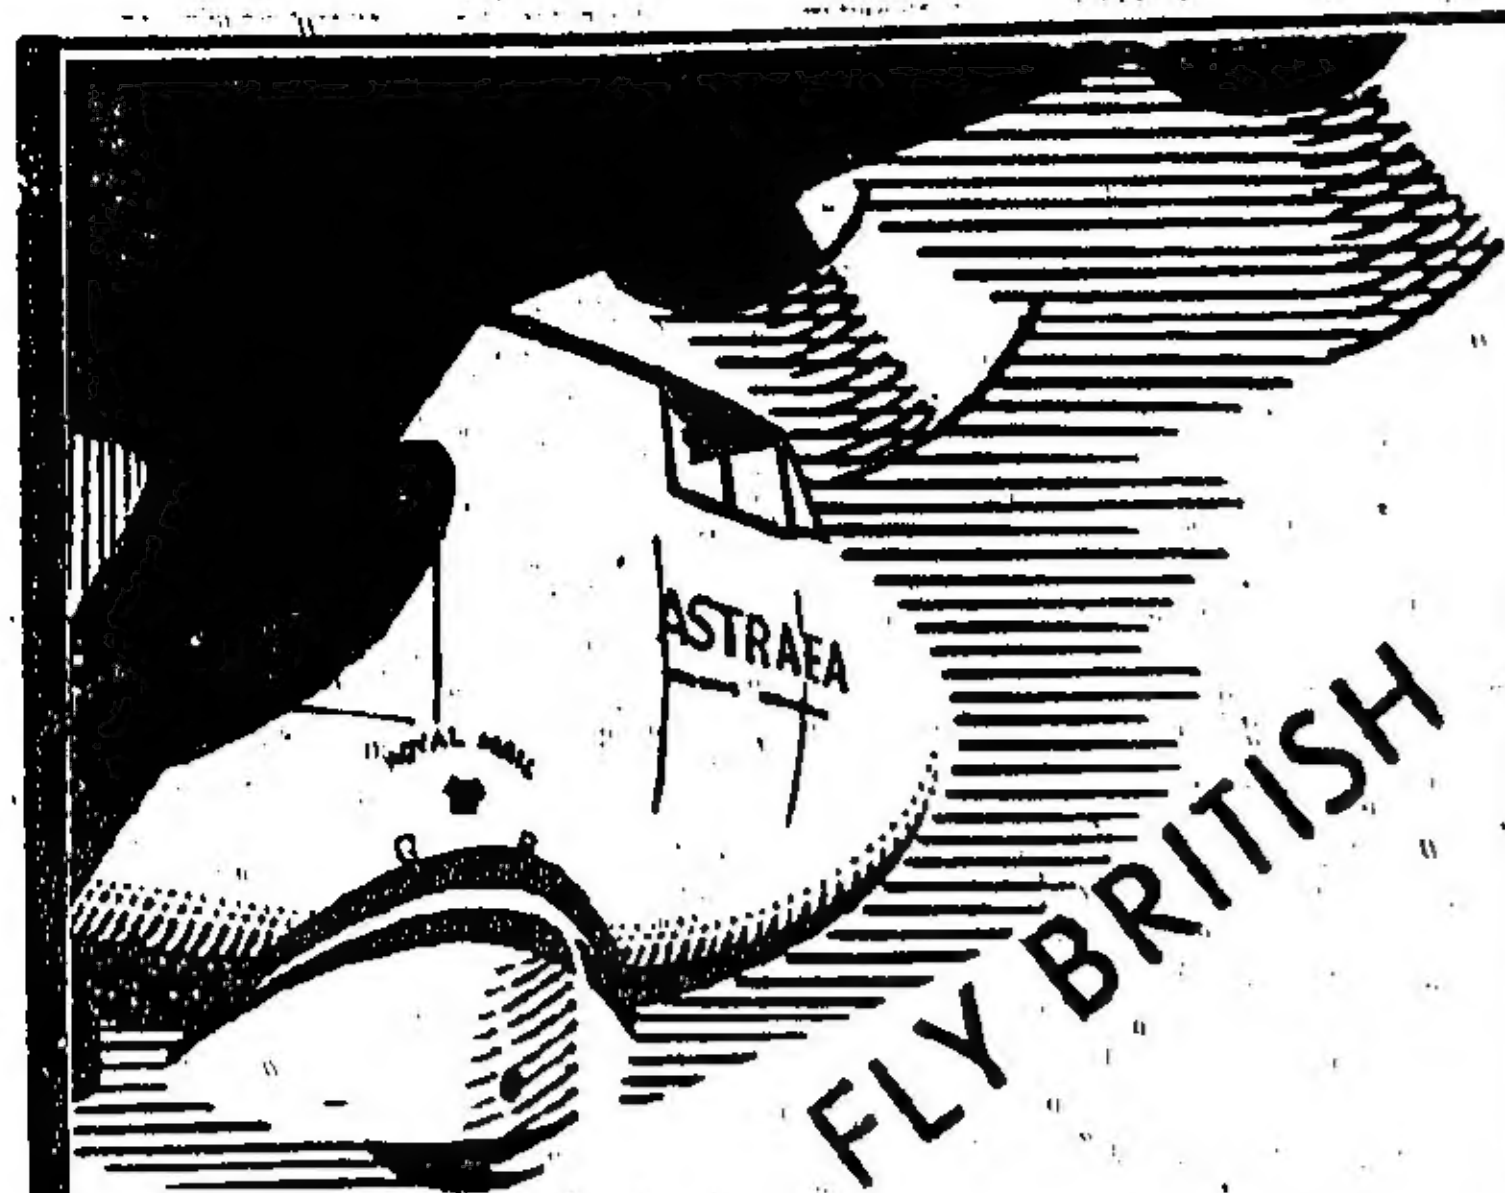

"Burying out I caught sight of my man about fifty yards ahead walking in the direction of North-road railway station."

"I said to him, 'I am a police officer.' He held out his hand and replied, 'I am a prison officer.'"

"I said, 'I know you are, your name is—, and you are a warden at Prince-town convict prison.'"

"The man's face went ashen grey. He put his hand tremblingly into an inside pocket of his coat and drew forth a photograph, saying, 'Look here, this is my wife and kiddies. Give me a chance. I did it for the wife and kiddies.' He showed me £27, which he said he had received for the stone."

That same evening Warden—went back to Princetown under escort.

LOITERER FINED

A fine of $15 or 3 weeks imprisonment on one charge, and 3 weeks on another charge, the sentences to run concurrently, was imposed by the Kowloon Magistrate Mr. W. M. Thomson at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court yesterday afternoon, on Chan Leung Tsui (34) cooile of No. 10 Hingping Road, who appeared on two counts, namely (a) loitering in Halphong Road on Wednesday at 2.25 a.m. and (b) the possession of an instrument for an unlawful purpose.

It was stated that defendant's actions aroused the suspicions of a constable who followed him. When defendant noticed the constable he ran away. When finally arrested a pick-lock fell from defendant's jacket to the ground. He could not give a satisfactory account for his actions so was arrested.

The prosecuting officer said that defendant had no police record, and the address that he furnished on verification proved to be correct. He was employed as a cooile by the Kowloon Wharves.

Of late, however, an increasing quantity of switches and fuse boxes were being stolen, and the police were now engaged in an active campaign against these petty thefts.

NO BAIL ALLOWED

Chan Loi, alias Hon Yat Yuen, a travelling trader, appearing on remand before Mr. Macfadyen at the Central Magistracy yesterday was further remanded until the afternoon of September 25, when he appeared charged with the possession of three forged $10 notes of the Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China, Sub-Inspector J. O'Donovan appeared on behalf of the prosecuting officer, Detective Sergeant Guild, who is and was engaged at the Criminal Sessions.

Mr. M. K. Lo appeared for the defence. Bail was not allowed, the Magistrate intimating that bail would be fixed when the prosecution had presented him with their version of the case.

A candid confession that he had the knife and intended to threaten people from whom he was going to take money, was made by Tin Nan, 32, unemployed, when charged, before Mr. Thomson at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court yesterday with possession of the implement with intent to use it for an unlawful purpose at Talpo Road near Petho Street on Wednesday.

In answer to the charge defendant said, "I have no money. I carry this knife with me and when I come across someone with money I would threaten them with this knife and ask them for money."

In sentencing the man to six months' hard labour the Magistrate remarked: "We have a place for people like you, and you don't have to beg for food; you can go there."

Summoned for evading duty by issuing two receipts for the sum of $25.99 which was divided into two sums, Pang Chor-heung, of No. 30 Yat Tak Road, Kowloon City, was fined $10 by Mr. Thomson at the Kowloon Magistrate's Court yesterday. Sergeant Whittier, of the Colonial Treasury, appeared for the prosecution. It was alleged that defendant received the sum of $25.99 and instead of executing a single receipt he divided the sum into two, one of $15 and the other $10.99.

Li Yiu-Wah, aged 24, unemployed, appeared before Mr. Macfadyen at the Central Magistracy yesterday on four counts of (a) unlawful pawning of a sewing-machine; (b) unlawful pawning of a sewing-machine; (c) larceny of a sewing-machine; and (d) unlawful pawning of a sewing-machine. The complainant was Chin Yee, a tailor, of No. 178, Des Voeux Road, Central, third floor. Defendant pleaded guilty to all the charges.

Detective Sergeant C. Goodwin prosecuted. On the first charge, defendant was fined $15, or three weeks' hard labour, on the second charge he was fined $10 or 14 days' hard labour, the sentences to be concurrent. Sentence of six weeks' hard labour was imposed on the third charge, to be served consecutively with the other sentences, and a fine of $50, or one month's hard labour, was inflicted on the last charge, this sentence to be concurrent.

POSSESSION OF ARMS

Four Chinese, Law Fook, Wong Chan Hong, Wong Tin and Tsang Hung, appeared before Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistracy yesterday and were charged with possession or control of arms and ammunition, two home made bombs, a packet of gun powder, and three daggers. Detective Sgt. Fitches conducted the case.

The first witness called was Sgt. Scott who said that on Sept. 2, he went with Sgt. Fitches to Shaokwan Police Station to examine some revolvers and dangerous explosives.

He examined the revolvers and found them to be fully loaded. There were two dynamite home made bombs of the ordinary detonator type. There was also in the bag 3 daggers, 1 roll of caps, 1 stick of gellignite and a packet of gun powder.

BAG HIDDEN IN SAIL

Pak Kau, a boat builder living at the Keng Heng boat yard was the next witness. He said that on September 1, he awoke at 6.30 a.m. and saw a boat in front of the yard, and he noticed the four defendants on board. At 9 a.m. he saw the first defendant bringing in a sail which he put on the shelf on the side of the yard.

At 5 p.m. that same day the police came and after a search they opened the sail and witness saw them find the bag which contained the articles mentioned.

Y. P. Koon, a detective at the Shaokwan Station, stated in evidence that he went out to the boat yard on the evening of the Sept. 1, with a party of police; he described the arrest and the finding of the arms in the bag hidden in the folds of the sail.

At this stage the hearing was adjourned till to-day.

A European, Stephen Chester Southern, failed to make an appearance before Mr. W. Schofield, at the Central Magistracy yesterday on a charge of behaving in a disorderly manner and using profane language towards Chan Yee, married woman, in Gloucester Road yesterday. The defendant's bail of $25 was accordingly estreated.

FORBIDDEN TO BATHE

But Rescued A Man

John Fielden Wigglesworth, a Whitby, Yorkshire, boy, was forbidden to bathe because he had a weak heart.

He was on the beach at Upgang, Whitby, when he saw an elderly man struggling for life in a rough sea.

Onlookers stood at the water's edge afraid to go to the rescue because of the breakers.

But the boy did not hesitate. He plunged in and, fighting slowly through the waves, reached him just in time to put a lifeline round him.

Both were hauled ashore. Then the boy collapsed and had to be given first aid treatment.

The man he rescued had gone into the water when he heard cries for help from a girl bather who had got out of her depth.

The girl bather was brought to the shore by Mr. G. Coates, a visitor from London.

LINER STOPPED: GIRL SEIZED

Nazi secret police held up the 21,000-ton German liner "Hamburg" after she had left Cuxhaven for New York in order to prevent a German girl from leaving her country.

When the liner was several miles out a "stop" order was flashed to the captain by the secret police of Cuxhaven. The Hamburg halted.

A speed-boat manned by police drew alongside. Officers climbed aboard. Frau Elise Dorothea Sturm, a third-class passenger, was brought before them, and they took her back to Cuxhaven.

The reason was stated to be that Frau Sturm had no permission to leave Germany. A certain "affair" must be investigated, a police official said. He refused to reveal what the "affair" was.

MYSTERY FIRE

In Braes Murder Wood

Smoke and flames rising from the bushes on Buckle Braes spread the rumour throughout Perth to-night that the murderer of Daniel Kerrigan had returned secretly to the scene of his crime, and set the wood ablaze to destroy any possible clues it might contain.

But police have never been far from Cuddies' Strip, as the wood is named, since seventeen-year-old Madge Fenwick, sitting there with her eighteen-year-old sweetheart, Daniel Kerrigan, nine nights ago, saw him spot dead at her side by a man with "garing eyes" who afterwards attacked the neighbourhood when the fire broke out. They rushed to the flames, and with the help of a number of boys, managed to beat them out. Had they failed, Cuddies' Strip would never have yielded up the secrets it is hoped it may still hold.

GUARD OVER WOODS

A special guard has to-night been placed over the woods, and the farm roads leading to Buckle Braes are being patrolled.

To-day Detective Lieutenant Gordon Leith and Detective Sergeant MacDougall, of the Glasgow C.I.D., joined forces with the Perthshire constabulary. They visited Buckle Braes, and later spent the afternoon making calls in various parts of the city.

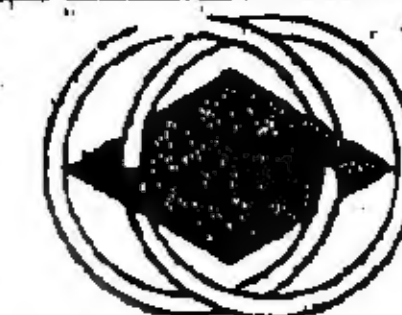

They also interviewed Miss Fenwick. She handed them a threatening letter she had received. It read:

"Meet me at Perth General Station 6.30 Saturday night. Dundee platform. Refuse then you know."

The anonymous writer had taken the precaution of writing in block letters. Miss Fenwick is rapidly recovering from her injuries. To-day she went motoring with her father and mother in the country.

When Kerrigan was found, his face was covered by a handkerchief. After seven days' investigation the police have been able, through a local laundry, to trace its owner, who has not the slightest connection with the crime.

The revelation that half a shirt button had been found sixty yards from where Kerrigan was found has bekindled the interest of the searchers. The other half of the button was still attached to Kerrigan's shirt when his body was found by the police.

THE CRIMINAL SESSIONS

Three Years For Kidnapper

A plot by three Chinese, two males and a female to kidnap a child and to sell it in the country and now the woman, getting frightened at the last moment, informed the police of the matter led to the appearance of Lau Sang, alias Ah Sum, 27, unemployed and Leung Yee alias Leung Kwan, 36, also an unemployed before, Sir Atholl MacGregor and a jury yesterday, charged with the kidnapping of a 7-year-old boy, Tsang Muk Chung, on August 5.

The first accused pleaded guilty to the charge while the second pleaded not guilty and his case was proceeded with.

The jury empanelled were: Messrs. A. E. Atkins (foreman), C. E. Coelho, A. J. Coates, O. J. Arculli, Jr., Shi Kum Kwai, F. H. Neale and L. D. Purves.

Outlining the case for the Crown the Assistant Attorney General, Mr. J. A. Fraser said that the accused visited a sub-tenant, a woman named Chan Yung at No. 416 Reclamation regularly. At the end of July he got properly acquainted with her and together with other men asked the woman if she had courage enough to take a child to Canton and sell the child promising her $90 for the trouble.

CHANGED HER MIND

At first the woman consented but later she thought that it was not the right thing to do and informed a Chinese detective about the matter.

As soon as this was done the woman acted under the instructions of the Police.

ACCUSED ARRESTED

On August 3, the woman was called into the street and saw the accused and the first defendant standing opposite the road. She was asked for some money but on being informed that she had none the men left. The next day the accused once again called on her and asked her to borrow some money. She however, refused to do so until they produced the child.

On August 5 the accused went to a bicycle shop and there hired two bicycles. At about 1 p.m. that same day Tsang Muk Chung who lives with his parents at a street in Kowloon City was playing in the street. These two men came up to him and took him on their bicycle. On the way the boy cried and he was slapped by them.

The boy was eventually brought to Chau Yung (the woman). When they had reached Shantung Street the detective arrested the first accused while the defendant was held by a friend of the police officer.

Mr. Fraser concluded by saying that the case for the Crown rested on the fact that the accused was found in possession of the boy. There would be substantial evidence to prove that accused was one of the men who called on the woman Chan Yung and suggested to her that she sell a child.

BOY'S EVIDENCE

Evidence was then called to substantiate the Crown's opening statement. The kidnapped boy gave a dramatic account of how he was taken away and when he cried he was slapped by the defendant and the first accused.

In a statement from the dock the accused said he went to Tsang Wan on the day in question after parking his bicycle in Reclamation Street as one of the tyres was punctured. When he returned to get his bicycle he met Leung Yee, the other accused, holding a small boy by the hand. They had a talk and while so doing, they were arrested.

The jury deliberated for a short while and returned a verdict of guilty against the defendant. He was sentenced to three years' hard labour while the first accused, who had pleaded guilty received 18 months' hard labour.

BOY'S MYSTERY RAIL DEATH

Edward Stephen Bird, aged fourteen, of South View Avenue, Tilbury, Essex, was killed by a train when a train was shunted into the same siding, and he was killed.

At the Tilbury inquest, William South, a leading shunter, said that he set the points for the empty carriages to go into an

THREE MOTOR ACCIDENTS

Europeans Involved

Three motor accidents, all of which occurred on Wednesday and which involved Europeans have been brought to the notice of the Police.

Mr. W. E. Hollands, of the P.W.D., reports that while driving car No. 1341 in Queen's Road East, about 5 p.m., a man named Chu Hing, aged 41 years, ran into the car and was knocked down. The man received slight injuries and was treated at the Government Civil Hospital, but not detained.

Mr. E. Thompson, driver of car No. 3978 reports that while driving in Tai Hang Road he noticed a group of coolie women carrying earth across the road near Fuk Kwan Avenue. He sounded his horn, but one of the women, Fung Ching, aged 33 years, hesitated, ran back and was knocked down. She received injuries to her hands and legs and was treated at St. Paul's Hospital, Causeway Bay.

Mr. C. M. Larsen, of the Standard-Vacuum Oil Corporation, reports that while driving car No. 245 in Nathan Road about 5 p.m. he knocked down a boy, Lo Li Kwong, aged 12 years, who received injuries to his head. The victim was admitted to the Kowloon Hospital.

SIR THOMAS SOUTHRN

The Director of Medical and Sanitary Services and Government Consultants report that Sir Thomas Southern has had a much better night and is making satisfactory progress.

UP AND DOING

Eight-Three And A "Lad"

Lads of sixty and seventy living in redneck boyhood, take off your hats to Mr. A. E. Wenham, eighty-three years of age, sixty-five years with his present firm, widower of three wives, and still with a merry twinkle in his bright blue eyes.

Above all, he is one of the most active business men in this bustling old City of London.

Every morning Mr. Wenham catches the 8.35 train from Bexleyheath to town. Every morning at 9.30 Mr. Wenham appears smiling and eager at the offices of a 130-years-old shipping firm in Byward-street. Every night he reaches home between six and seven.

ERRAND BOY

The only variation Mr. Wenham remembers is when, in the good old days he used to get to work at eight and left off at eight or nine, or ten, or even eleven o'clock at night.

He started his career by getting a sound education at Charterhouse. "At sixteen I wanted a job," he said. "I got one as errand boy; I soon saw another job at half a crown a week more. I got it. Then at eighteen I secured a post as junior with my present firm, Henry Johnson, Sons and Co., Ltd., and there I have been ever since."

"My last wife died in 1933 and I'm left with my eighteen-year-old daughter looking after me. I have one son by my first wife, one daughter by the second, and a daughter and son by the third. All fit and doing well."

Mr. Wenham has one regret. When he plays cricket he has to get someone to run for him.

"Not quite so fast as I was," "Retire?" he said. "What for? I'm well and fit. Besides I'm a lad who must be up and doing. Why, it's twelve o'clock, and my business today takes me to Kingston, Hampton Wick and Balham. And I want to be back in the City by four o'clock."

"He jumped up suddenly, grabbed his hat, and dashed for the lift. It was his first day as a junior sixty-five years ago."

other siding. Some one must have altered the points. "A verdict of 'Accidental Death' was returned."

The jury recommended that certain points should be operated from the signal box to release the shunter for observation purposes.

WELL DESERVED HONOUR

Mr. M. K. Lo For The Council

His many friends will learn with much pleasure that Mr. M. K. Lo, the popular local solicitor, has been appointed to the Legislative Council in succession to the Hon. Mr. R. H. Kotewill, C.M.G., L.L.D., whose term of office expires on October 3.

Mr. Lo Man-kam who was born on July 21, 1893, is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Lo Cheung-shui. He received his early education in Hong Kong but left for England, returning in 1918 after having been first in "First Class Honours" in his law examinations, thus gaining the Solicitors' "Blue Ribbon."

In 1918 Mr. Lo was married to Miss Victoria Ho-tung, daughter of Sir Robert Ho-tung and there are many who attended the ceremony who will readily recall what a brilliant function it was. The late Sir Henry May, for many years Governor of Hong Kong, proposed the health of the bride and groom in the course of which he paid a glowing tribute to Mr. Lo's brilliant career.

MANY ACTIVITIES

Since his return from England, Mr. Lo has been the head of the legal firm of Messrs. Lo & Lo but in addition to his work his activities are legion. A year or so after 1915, he was appointed Honorary Legal Adviser to the Chinese General Chamber of Commerce and has acted ever since; he has also been on Executive Committee of the Chamber for some period. In addition he has also acted or acting as Honorary Legal Adviser to:—

Tung Wah Hospital, and the firm has performed legal work gratuitously. He assisted in the new Tung Wah Hospital Ordinance which became law at the end of 1930.

Chinese Mechanics' Guild in the first organised Labour Strike in Hong Kong in 1922. He used his moderating influence and effected a compromise between the labourers on the one hand and the Hon. Mr. Johnstone of behalf of the employers on the other, which was acceptable to both parties. He was publicly thanked by Mr. Johnstone in the Press at the time.

Gold and Silver Exchange, New Territories Medical Benevolent Society, Chinese Medical Association, and New Territories Agricultural Association.

Mr. Lo who was appointed a Justice of the Peace 1921, was a member of the Hong Kong Delegation to Canton with a view to reaching a compromise and putting an end to the 1925 Strike. He made a detailed personal report on the Canton visit and handed same to the Hon. Mr. R. H. Kotewill on his meeting the steamer on arrival at Hong Kong. He was thanked by H.E. Sir Cecil Clementi, the then Governor of Hong Kong.

Mr. Lo was chairman of the Tung Wah Hospital, 1929-1930, when the Tung Wah Eastern Hospital was opened, and handed over $100,000.00 to new Directors. He is also on the Tung Wah Hospital Advisory Board. He served on the special Committee and as member of the special Chinese Sub-Committee superintending the erection of water tanks on the praya, and on the dissolution of the Committee he was amongst those specifically thanked by the then Hon. Mr. Southern (now Sir Thomas Southern, C.M.G.), Colonial Secretary.

Mr. Lo is also a member of the Sanitary Board, the District Committee, and the Court of Hong Kong University.

THE FIELD OF SPORT

In the Football Club and Chinese Clubs' Dispute, he was one of the 3 Chinese delegates in the settlement of the dispute. He received special letters of thanks from Mr. Ormiston, chairman of the Hong Kong Football Club, and Mr. Duncan, Chairman of Sub-Committee of Hong Kong Football Club, delegates to settle the dispute.

In addition Mr. Lo has acted as President of the Rotary Club. He is the vice-president of the Lawn Tennis Association, besides serving on many other bodies too numerous to mention.

Mr. Lo is a director of the Hong Kong & Shanghai Hotels, Ltd., the China Light & Power Co., Ltd., and the Hong Kong, Canton and Macao Steamboat Co., Ltd.

AIR SERVICES IN CHINA

Canton, Sept. 19.

The air service between Canton and Peiping, via Hankow, which has been suspended since July, will be resumed next May, when two fast Junkers planes will bridge the distance between the two cities in North and South China in one day instead of two. It was learned to-day.

This statement is based on an interview granted at Shanghai by Mr. Fritz Horn, technical manager of the Eurasia Corporation, who flew to Shanghai last Wednesday morning in the giant Junkers plane and reached there in the afternoon.

From other sources it is learned that General Chiang Kai-shek, military chief of the National Government, is most anxious to inaugurate the Shanghai-Chengtu-Sian air service rather than to resume immediately the Canton-Peiping line. General Chiang wants to develop the North-west provinces, and Sian is an important point in far-away Kansu. Chengtu and Sian are separated by over 500 miles. The absence of railways and highways in those mountainous regions calls for the development of aerial transportation.

The North-west provinces are far inland and quite beyond the reach of naval or aerial bombardment in the event of war, in the opinion of the military authorities.

RADIO EXHIBITION

Ten years ago the first British Radio Exhibition, organised by the Radio Manufacturers' Association, was held at Olympia, in London. It was so successful that the Association at once decided to hold another the following year, and since then the Radio Exhibition has been an annual event of first class importance. This year's show, which opened on the 14th of August, was the largest Radio Exhibition in the world.

In 1925 British broadcasting was in its infancy and a wireless set was a luxury, only to be found in wealthy homes. Now more than seven million homes throughout Great Britain possess a wireless set of some description. The radio industry is one of the most prosperous in the country. It employs directly 80,000 and indirectly 250,000 persons, but apart from the question of the number of persons employed, it is certainly one of the most interesting industries of all. So rapid are developments that apparatus which was in use but a few years ago is now obsolete. Ninety per cent. of the manufacturers who exhibit their products at "Radiolympia," as the Exhibition has been aptly called, are pioneers, each of whom has contributed something to the industry by individual research.

This year's exhibition was from every point of view the most impressive and the most successful of the series. A record amount of floor space was occupied by the exhibits, sent by 201 British firms. The total value of the five thousand different sets, radio-gramophones and general equipment was £5,000,000. The cost of erecting the stands, theatres and other equipment was £250,000. £10,000 was spent on building a gigantic theatre in which the British Broadcasting Corporation gave three performances daily. At one end of the Grand Hall the entire wall was occupied by a huge illuminated cyclorama, measuring three hundred feet in length. Upon this screen—the largest cycloramic screen in the world—was depicted the story of broadcasting.

Although there have been no revolutionary technical changes in receivers, considerable progress was revealed in many directions. The price of receivers showed a fifteen per cent. reduction on last year, while at the same time the quality was considerably higher. The exterior designs of cabinets are more attractive than ever. Loudspeakers have been greatly improved. Perhaps the best possible feature of the products was their simplicity—which was the keyword of the 1935 models. Devices have been introduced to eliminate the "crackles" resulting from electrical interference, and the standard of tone and reproduction has never before been equalled. Various refinements such as visual tuning indicators and automatic volume control, which had previously been confined to the more expensive sets, were this year incorporated in the moderately priced models.

There were several outstanding original models this year. They ranged from a super all-wave model, in a plate-glass cabinet, costing 200 guineas, to a tiny curiosity in a cigarette case. On the "Aerodyn" stand was an ingenious apparatus in the form of a control device. It tunes itself in. The receiver is set in motion merely pressing a button on the control panel. The tuning dial moves round automatically, and stops as soon as it has tuned in the first station of "entertainment strength." When the button is pressed again the dial moves round to the next good station. Another novelty was to be seen on "His Master's Voice" stage, where one set would switch on and off of its own accord whenever

THE SWIMMING INTERPORT

Shanghai Lead By One Point

(BY "PLUNGE").

Seating accommodation was taxed to the limit when Shanghai met Hong Kong on the first day of the Interport Swimming contest at the Victoria Recreation Club bath yesterday. At the end of the day Shanghai, by virtue of a splendid victory in the 200 Yards Relay Race led the local side by a single point, but so far as individual honours were concerned, the Hong Kong men came off best.

To start the ball rolling W. Lawrence, the Hong Kong "ace" man won the 220 yards from N. Hammond in rather easy fashion, establishing a new Interport mark when he recorded 2 mins. 23 3/5 secs. Hammond led for the first 100 yards which he covered at a cracking pace to turn at the four lengths with a clear three yards lead. Then Lawrence gradually overhauled his rival, and finished the race 7-3/5 secs. ahead of the Shanghai marvel. Hammond clocked 2 mins. 30 secs. dead.

A. Logan, Shanghai's second string, did very well to beat L. Roza Pereira for he finished strongly being only a yard behind Hammond at the tape.

Lawrence's time for this event equals the English record set up by Multon recently in England. Hong Kong at this stage lead by 5 points to 4.

ANOTHER RECORD

Another record went by the board when Kwok Chun Hang, the Australian and Colony champion returned 72 secs. dead for the 100 yards breaststroke, finishing a clear 1-1/5 secs. ahead of R. Weiz, who surprised everyone with his gallant effort. Kwok had to go all out the whole of the distance and the time returned was an Interport record. E. M. Marques swam a good race to occupy third place. The score at this stage read Hong Kong 11 points, Shanghai 2.

The relay race, which was the spice of the programme, did not turn out in any way a disappointment for it was swum by the four contestants on both sides at a cracking pace. Ward started for Shanghai, with Lawrence as his opponent and gave his side a bare foot lead. Chan Chan Hing, Hong Kong's No. 2 man, swam a magnificent race to give Hong Kong the lead, which, however, was short lived as Logan (Shanghai) more than made up the arrears. Hammond (Shanghai) thus entered the bath before Ozario, and had no difficulty in maintaining the lead, to give the Northerners a well-earned victory. By virtue of the win, Shanghai thus leads Hong Kong by a single point in the total tally (12 points to 11).

WATER POLO

The final item on the programme was a water polo game in which Shanghai met a team from the rest of Hong Kong. Four local swimmers turned out for Shanghai, as the latter are reserving their own men for to-day's events.

Shanghai won an evenly contested game by the only goal scored which was netted by S. V. Gittins (V.R.C.) during the first half.

The teams were: Rest of Hong Kong: M. M. De V. Soares, N. Delgado, Ng Kim Chuen, Lee Yee Long, Shek Kam Pui, A. A. Roza, and H. L. Ozario. Shanghai: W. Wagner, E. Weiz, G. J. Grill, Jr., S. V. Gittins, E. L. Gosano, C. Roza Pereira, and J. Deani.

anyone looked at it. An instrument which attracted great excitement was a "Telepathovox" the result of many years of laborious experiments, which automatically answered questions put to it by the spectators.

It is impossible to give a detailed description of the wonders of "Radiolympia" within this limited space, but that its wonders were appreciated there can be no doubt. Most visitors were present from overseas than ever before. Thousands more of the general public visited the show. The firms exhibiting reported that within a very short time record orders had been placed. One expert declared that during the first five days orders to the value of more than £5,000,000 were placed. Most of the manufacturers are already working to capacity, and the best

STRAIGHT FROM THE SHOULDER

(BY NO QUARTER)

On Sunday, when I looked at the piece of damp seaweed which Aunt Fanny gave me, I knew there was going to be a typhoon, and sure enough I was right. Or nearly right, because there nearly was, wasn't there. I got so excited, and Sebastian positively wouldn't eat his bone! I do think animals are marvellous, don't you? I mean that sort of animals—the nice kind; not creepy-weeepy ones. (Stop me when you've had enough).

A friend of mine once had a little doggy called Pansy, a lady-doggy, and this friend was rather naughty I'm afraid, and used to get intoxicated at night. One night he fell down in the snow, and Pansy came and looked at him sorrowfully. (Dogs are so human, aren't they), until he looked up and said:—"Pansy, you old bitch, get me out of here, and its worth a packet of Pratts to you."

Pansy trotted off, and fetched three stones one after another, which he placed in his master's hand.

"And right," he said. "You old skinflint; three packets it is," and off trotted Pansy to get help. I'm tired of this story; you finish it.

TYPHOON TOPICS

Talking of typhoons, I had a very interesting conversation on the subject with Commander Boom, the secretary of the Whampoa Wherry Club. The Commander has had a great deal of experience in Sall, and has undergone fear-some experiences combatting the elements. He was in Samoa, during the great hurricane of 1906, when he had his hair blown off though he managed to save his eyebrows by passing strips of sticking plaster over them.

He gave me a graphic description of the Hong Kong Typhoon of 1909, when a talpa was blown across the harbour when he bent down to rob a blind beggar of his tray of matches.

I asked Commander Boom what was to be the yachting programme of the Club this year, and he told me it is to be as follows:—

- 1—The Sir Anthony Bulwark Cup:
For Cutter-built, bumble-rigged snitches; no spinnakers or whistling spysails allowed.
- 2—The Mrs. Jibbe Trophy:
For vessels of any class sailed by ladies or women. There and back, once round. No competitor is allowed to touch the Buoy.
- 3—The Mrs. Ruginson Bowl:
For steam launches; helmsman to be certified as being drunk ten minutes before the race. The competitor who hits the smallest number of obstacles in twenty minutes wins the event. Passing out disqualifies.

I also gather from the Commander that ventilated halyards would be popular this year, and that Dr. Aufgang has invented a new type of anchor which may find favour. It consists of a large piece of iron which is dropped into the water. A powerful magnet is then attached to the vessel by a piece of rope, thus holding it stationary.

TAILPIECE

AN APPEAL TO THE COLONY SPORTS EDITORS

At shooting, or at riding things, our Nation's seldom beaten. And Waterloo was won upon the playing fields of Eton. Our Football is outstanding, and our Racing, I should guess. We'd all be glad to read about it printed in the Press.

The Papers all insist upon a line of Sporting Goods. Exclusively concerned with "making heads," and "pretty words." And though nothing makes madder than the bravest sort of sports.

I voice a very heartfelt prayer: "Please let us SKIP the BOWLS!"

No one received injuries.

A daring robbery occurred early last evening, when four men entered No. 11, Caine Road and robbed a Chinese woman named Choi Eol who is the sole occupant of the floor. It appears that the men gagged and bound her and then robbed her of jewellery to the value of $24.50.

SCENES AT ETHIOPIAN CAPITAL

Impending War Rouses The People

FAREWELL SCENE AT PALACE

Addis Ababa, September 19.

The imminence of war stirs the peoples in this ancient kingdom to indescribable patriotism. The efforts of the women and children to help the threatened country are second only to the enthusiasm of the warriors preparing to sacrifice themselves in the unequal struggle.

A pathetic spectacle in the streets of the capital this morning was some fifty little fellows, the oldest not more than eight years, mostly grandsons of the Adawa heroes, who played at soldiers in deep earnest. Dressed in khaki and carrying miniature wooden rifles, they marched rigidly, keeping step to the strains of a military band.

The boys, when questioned, said that they would look after their mothers and sisters in the absence of the fathers who had already gone to the front and till they themselves were old enough to join up.

One thousand five hundred Ethiopian women belonging to a patriotic society visited the Empress to-day and offered to feed at their own expense 7,500 fighters for whom they had already prepared immense quantities of dried meats and other preserved provisions. In the provinces the society's branches are similarly striving to ration the troops in their areas. The Empress accepted the women's offer and fulfilled her last engagement for a long time at Addis Ababa.

ROYAL FAREWELL

Then arrived the most painful moment of bidding farewell to the Emperor, not knowing when, if ever, they will be reunited.

The Empress accompanied by her youngest child departed by special train for Bichota, two hours distant, whence she will watch events from a lonely hotel.

PROPOSALS RECEIVED

Addis Ababa, Sept. 19. The Government have just received a telegram from Geneva informing them of the Committee of Five's proposals. Probably the Emperor will summon the cabinet this evening to consider them.

Although the proposals are not yet known, it is learned unofficially that it is very likely Ethiopia will accept them.

EGYPT CALM

Cairo, Sept. 19. No apprehension is shown by the Egyptians in regard to the Italian reinforcements in Libya which are said to number about 40,000 men and not interpreted as a threat to Egypt.

It is known that Italy has her own troubles in Libya and it is regarded here as quite natural that she will take precautionary measures in view of possible unrest between the tribes in the event of an Italo-Ethiopian war.

Despite propaganda intended to raise political issues between Egypt and Britain, the fact remains that Egypt is completely peaceful and unquestionably prefers British friendship to any other.

REPORT DENIED

London, Sept. 19. Regarding Rome's Libya story and the Italian allegation that the Senussi have been encouraged by the British, this has been already officially denied by the Anglo-Egyptian authorities.

ADVICE NOT WANTED

Geneva, Sept. 19. Baron Aloisi is not going to Rome to consult Signor Mussolini. It is understood that Il Duce has told him that he does not want any advice from Geneva. This decision has produced a rather painful impression because it is taken to indicate that Signor Mussolini has no intention of departing from his attitude of inflexible determination to pursue the campaign.

IRISH OFFER

Dublin, Sept. 18. The Irish Blueshirt leader, General O'Duffy, has confirmed the report that a number of Blueshirts have volunteered to serve Italy in an African campaign.

Nothing has yet been decided in respect of their offer because international reactions must be considered.

General O'Duffy has just returned from the Fascist Congress at Rome.

Haile Selassie, Emperor of Ethiopia, is calmly awaiting events. In the meantime he has received the Geneva proposals.

SILVER MARKET

(From Our Own Correspondent)

London, Sept. 19.

London silver prices to-day were unchanged for Spot and 1/16 down for Forward as follows:

	Sept. 18	Sept. 19
Spot	29-3/16	29-3/16
Forward	29-5/16	29-1/4

London on New York cross-rate at 2 p.m. to-day was 49288 compared with 49312 at closing yesterday.

M. Laval interviewed Baron Aloisi for an hour to-night and explained certain points of the proposals and their background.

Reuter.

BRITAIN SATISFIED

London, Sept. 18. Proposals for the peaceful settlement of the dispute between Italy and Ethiopia, embodied in the report of the League Council's Subcommittee of Five were to-day communicated by its Chairman, Senor de Madariaga, to the Ethiopian and Italian delegations and the leader of the Italian delegation, Baron Aloisi, is leaving Geneva for Rome to place them before Signor Mussolini and his Ministers.

The report will not be published until it has been examined by the parties to the dispute and the study by the Italian and Abyssinian authorities may take some days. In the meantime it is understood the report contains suggestions for the most appropriate forms in which international assistance might be given to Ethiopia and in Geneva it is thought, in cooperating in these collective measures, Italy would be able to achieve practically and without immense cost of a military campaign here legitimate economic aims.

The British delegation is stated to be satisfied there is nothing in the proposals inconsistent with Ethiopia's position in the League or with the principles of the Covenant.

Reuter.

ITALIANS REINFORCED

Rome, Sept. 18. A double purpose lies behind the official announcement that Italian troops in Libya are being reinforced.

A spirit of rebellion has abounded among the Senussi tribesmen since General Graziani subdued them in 1932 and many of the fighting men took refuge in Egypt, near the Cyrenaica border.

Agitation and the rumblings of a revolt, were recently revived among the tribes when the Italians withdrew some of the garrison troops from Libya and sent them into Eritrea.

The Italian authorities are apprehensive of an eruption of Senussi out of Egypt, who are reported here to have been encouraged in revolt by emissaries of the British Government.

Italian troops in Libya are principally centred on the frontier between the holy cities of Zarabub and Kufra. They face a triple barrier of barbed wire, party electrified, along the whole of the Egyptian border. It was originally designed to prevent the smuggling of arms from Egypt to the Senussi.

Italy's second consideration is the potential menace to Egypt of a Senussi revolution. A powerful force moving from the Cyrenaica country towards the Suez Canal would constitute a very obvious and alarming threat to British Imperial communications. It is felt the mere threat of such a move would have a salutary effect upon the use of sanctions against Italy.

Reuter.

ITALIAN REPLY

Geneva, Sept. 18.

It is now stated that the Italian reply to Senor de Madariaga's aide memoire concerning the League Committee's proposal for a compromise in the Italo-Ethiopian crisis, may not be forthcoming before next week.

The Ethiopian delegate here states that it may be a week before a reply is received from Addis Ababa.

Reuter.

PLAN OF ASSISTANCE TO ETHIOPIA

Recommendations Of The Committee Of Five

Geneva, Sept. 19.

The Committee of Five's recommendations, it is reliably stated, comprise a preamble, protocol and plan of assistance.

The preamble of a recapitulatory nature refers to Ethiopia's undertakings in 1923 regarding slavery and arms traffic and the Ethiopian delegate's request for help to elevate the financial, economic and political condition of Ethiopia which he said his country regards as a fraternal gesture from more advanced peoples.

The protocol provides for Ethiopia's general acceptance of recommendations.

The plan of assistance provides for reorganisation (under League auspices and with help of European advisers) of all public services, the most important of which will be the land-reform, police and administration of justice.

The duty of the foreign mission would be firstly the repression of slavery, promiscuous arms traffic, assuring the security of foreign merchants and settlers, prevention of raids and slave traffic.

Secondly, the encouragement of economic exploitation of Ethiopia's resources by giving foreigners mining concessions, opportunity for land development, and in commercial and industrial undertakings facilities for increase of foreign trade will be sought, while foreign specialists will help in the development of the postal service, public works and means of transport and communication.

Thirdly, the finances would be rigidly controlled, taxes revised, and possibility of monopolies examined in connection with a system of foreign loans.

Fourthly, the British and French Government are prepared to concede strips of territory in British and French Somaliland respectively to facilitate the rectification of the Italo-Abyssinian frontier to provide Ethiopia access to the sea.

EQUALITY FOR WOMEN

Strong Appeal At Geneva

Geneva, Sept. 19.

"Give women a chance for half a say in world affairs and we might see better things. The present state of affairs could not be worse."

This outburst came from Madam Hilda Yen Chen, niece of Dr. Yen, speaking on behalf of China at the debate on the status of women before the assembly of the League Committee.

After describing the new system of jurisprudence in China, which was giving women equality, she appealed to the "gentlemen of the Occident for a share of their legal rights graciously and chivalrously and not force women to wrestle equally from them."

CLOSE IN OF RANKS

Conservative Party Resolutions

London, Sept. 19.

Determination to close the ranks of the Conservative party and wipe out the bitterness of the Indian controversy is conspicuous in the resolutions to be moved at the party's annual conference at Bournemouth on October 3 and 4. There is no allusion to India anywhere.

Mr. Page Croft, a former most prominent die-hard, moves the first resolution congratulating the Government on the "progressive triumph" of their general policy in restoring trade and finance and urging vigorous extension of it. Increased protection to agriculture will be specially emphasised.

Several resolutions will stress the vulnerability of the Empire trade routes. Great Britain's city industries and food supply, and urge our naval, military and air defences to be made adequate for national defence.

The plight of the distressed areas will be featured in four resolutions pleading for bold and comprehensive measures of relief in accordance with the special commissioner's recommendations.

Mr. Baldwin addresses a mass meeting on October 10 for the last time and he will also address the party before the general election.

Financial Help Promised

Nanking, Sept. 19.

The National Economic Council replied to General Han Fu Chu, Chairman of Shantung Provincial Government, urging the Shantung Government to undertake the gap-closing work along the major dykes in west Shantung and promised General Han that the Central Government would raise another $1,000,000 for the project, which will soon be remitted to Shantung.

Because of the financial stringency of the Shantung Treasury, General Han had recently wired the National Economic Council, asking the latter to order the Kwangho Conservancy Commission to undertake the dykes closing work in west Shantung.

RUMOURS DENIED BY KAILAN MINING

Tientsin, Sept. 19.

In an announcement issued to-day, the Kailan Mining Administration formally denies the rumours circulated by some foreign news agencies to the effect that the Kailan Mining Administration has considered the sale of its franchises to the South Manchurian Railway Company. Such rumours, it is stated, are absolutely groundless.

Since the Manchurian Incident four years ago to-day, the South Manchurian Railway Company has captured a part of the coal market of the Kailan Mining Administration. As a result, much over-produced coal has been piled up in many of its yards. This accounts chiefly for the spread of such rumours, that, in order to protect the interests, the Kailan Mining Administration has been considering the sale of its franchises.

ITALY WILL REJECT THE PROPOSALS

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright))

Rome, Sept. 19. The Cabinet Council will meet again on Saturday to consider the Committee of Five's proposals and the attitude to be adopted by Italy, according to information received from official quarters.

The view is held in political circles here that Italy will decline to entertain the committee's proposals since they merely put forward minor frontier alterations and economic concessions, but make no mention of the political and military control over Abyssinia.

The Committee's proposals would completely rob Italy of her recognised rights, states the Geneva correspondent of the semi-official "Gioranale d'Italia," who terms them a big step back in comparison to the concessions offered by Italy at Paris in the Three Power Conference, when the joint France, British and Italian exploitation of Abyssinia, with particular regard to Italy's interests, was suggested.

The evening papers declare that "the economic egoism" as regards Abyssinia is bound to lead to the gravest development in Europe. The League of Nations, writes the "Sera," is nothing but a screen, behind which England takes action in a determined effort to prevent Italy from obtaining any control in Abyssinia in accordance to her wishes, although these are modest compared with the enormous British and French colonial possessions.

LAWN BOWLS NOTES

Last Week's Games Reviewed

(BY "F. B.")

Now that the destinations of the shields for both Leagues have been won by the Craigengower "A" and the Kowloon Bowling Green respectively, and with the Open Competitions having reached their final stages, chief interest in lawn bowls will be centred on the forthcoming Interport Games with Shanghai.

Last week's league games all turned out as expected. The only minor surprise was caused by the Civil Servants when they defeated the newly crowned Junior Champions, the Bowling Green.

C.C.C. "A" won as expected against the Indians by 39 shots. The high score must be credited to B. W. Bradbury's four who trounced A. O. Madar's quartette by no less than 28 shots. R. F. Luz had an easy passage against A. R. Minu by 18 shots while A. R. Dalilah beat U. M. Omar by 7 shots.

CIVIL SERVANTS BEATEN
Although beaten last week by the Bowling Green, Civil Service was in no way disgraced. They put up a very good game and if luck had only swung a little in their direction the result might have been reversed.

F. J. Jones had a great tussle with A. M. Holland. Both rinks were playing well and it was only the mastery of Holland which won for his rink the game. J. Deakin and J. C. Brown both skipped their respective rinks, admirably and the difference of only 3 shots speaks volume for the standard of play. A. W. Grimmit was decidedly unlucky to have lost to L. Guy by a solitary shot and the difference of only 10 shots on the day's play was no criterion of the run-off of the game.

After their splendid victory over the Police a week ago the C.C.C. "B" were truly and properly trounced by the Reclio by 22 shots.

Play was very much one sided with the exception of H. A. Alves' rink and Arculi's four which the C.C.C. won by a single shot. Some good bowls was seen in this match and both skips were called to deal with some intricate situations. The two Silvas, C.G. and F.X.M. da won as expected.

THIS WEEK'S GAMES
The most interesting game down for decision on Saturday will undoubtedly be the match between the Champions—C.C.C. "A" and the Bowling Green. The result will have a strong bearing on the runners-up position. Should Bowling Green win the day they will automatically be shifted to the second position as at present they have the same number of points as the Reclio with this game to play.

The chances are slightly against the Bowling Green. They will be playing away in the first place and with the C.C.C. "A" skips playing on top form the Bowling Green will certainly have an uphill fight. But in A. M. Holland, J. C. Brown and L. Guy they have also three very dependable skips and if they can strike their true form anything is liable to happen.

Another good game should be seen on the C.C.C. green when the home team is entertaining the Police. Both teams are of about the same strength but they have both been so erratic that he would be a bold man.

K.C.C. is entertaining the C.C.C. "B". Again the form of the Valley Club is so unreliable that one is prone to think that the Cricketers will have an easy day. But such will not be the case as out of the three skips at least two of them are quite reliable and will give the best K.C.C. skip a fight for the points. All in all a good game is expected with the chances very even.

K.C.C. v. KOWLOON DOCKS

A very pleasant game ending in a narrow victory for the Cricketers by 5 shots. McKelvie's rink did very well to finish level with Bebbington's rink after being a little behind most of the time. McKelvie and Hyde were the pick of the two teams. Bebbington also played well at times. Fraser's rink were well up on Lapsley's rink having a lead of 12 shots to one after the 8th head. From then on however, the Docks found the Green and played very well, especially Lapsley eventually winning by 3 shots. Ramsey seemed out of place at three but had his opponent beaten. Silstone and Fincher played well up to tea time but after that they could not get going again. Fraser was not playing well. The match was really won by Hyde Lay's rink who won by 8 shots from Copper. Lee and Craig were the pick of the K.C.C. side, while Cullen and Attkenseid did well for the Docks. The last head was quite exciting. The Docks required 4 shots to tie and 5 to win. After the one's and two's had bowled the Docks were lying three shots out. Craig with his last wood pushed one of his own woods for the shot. The Docks found it impossible to get it out as it was well covered and the Cricketers deservedly won by 5 shots. The Cricketers complete their fixtures next Saturday when they meet the Craigengower "B".

THE JUNIORS
The Junior Champions should encounter no difficulty in their match against the Yacht Club while an excellent game should be seen on the Football Club Green when the home team entertain their neighbours, the C.C.C. Juniors. Both teams have played the same number of games, with 14 points each and on the result will depend their ultimate positions in the league table.

THE OPEN GAMES

Two finals were laid off in the course of the week. The Indians, defeated the Malaysians in the Final of the International Shield by 24 shots to 12. On the day's play there was no doubt about the superiority of the Indians. Man to man they were the better and to U. M. Omar, the Indian skip, much of their success was due. Dalilah did not receive much support from his men with the result that he was not given much scope. Great credit should be given to these two teams for the way they have reached the final in the face of such opposition as Portugal, England and Scotland. They have not as many players on which to rely upon and that is why their success is so thoroughly deserved.

Champion Omitted

Strange as it may seem the Colony Singles Champion is omitted in the Interport teams. I refer to R. Duncan who on Wednesday defeated B. W. Bradbury by 21 shots to 17 after a thrilling encounter. There is no reason why Duncan should not have been chosen in the first place. He has been playing consistently good bowls right through the season and has qualified in the finals of all three of the major Championships. In the Interport teams selected there are no less than 8 skips and I am sure Duncan is about the best if not one of the best No. 2 the Colony possess at the present moment. His exclusion from the team is to be deplored.

The Aitkenhead Shield between the Island and Mainland will be played in October when the curtain for the Lawn Bowls Season will be rung down. Selection committees have been chosen and everything points to a successful day for bowlers.

BRITISH WOMAN CHESS CHAMPION KILLED

Air Field Tragedy

Mrs. R. H. S. Stevenson, former British woman chess champion, was killed this evening at the Posen (Poland) air field when she ran into the propeller of an airplane which was to have taken her to Warsaw for the international chess tournament.

She was changing airplanes on her way from Berlin. "Mrs. Stevenson," a Posen airport official said to me over the telephone to-night, "was about to enter the airplane when she suddenly stopped and began to come back to the airport building. She ran straight into the propeller before anybody could stop her."

Mrs. Agnes Stevenson was the wife of Mr. R. H. S. Stevenson, a chemist, of Gauden-road, Clapham, London, S.W.

When a "Daily Express" representative called at their home late last night Mr. Stevenson had not heard of the accident.

"My wife left here early this morning to catch an air liner from Croydon, and she was due to reach Warsaw to-night," said Mr. Stevenson.

"This was her first flight. She thought she would go by air to see what it was like. The other mem-

Race For Honours

New York Sept. 18.
The race for championship honours in the National Baseball League remains keen with the Chicago Cubs holding the advantage over the other teams. However, St. Louis Cardinals are still favourably placed while the New York Giants are not to be ignored.

Once again the Cubs took their game from the Giants, whom they beat by a convincing margin. The Cardinals were engaged against the Dodgers and won by six runs to three.

In the American League the New York Yankees are making a belated recovery following their mid-season failures and to-day won a double header from the St. Louis Browns. The Yankees were able to decrease the difference between the two top teams by an even bigger margin when the Tigers failed in their match against the Boston Red Sox.

THE RACING SEASON

To Be Resumed To-morrow

FORM AND CHANCES DISCUSSED

(By "BLACK ROCK")

The racing season will be resumed to-morrow afternoon at Happy Valley when the Eighth Extra Meeting will be held. Given fine weather the meeting ought to be a success in every way for very elaborate preparations have been made with the view to giving racing enthusiasts a good afternoon's sport.

Taking into consideration the fact that a number of ponies are still away and some "on the fast-side," the entries received have been very encouraging. There is bound to be some close finishes and as may be expected at the "opening meeting" a number of upsets would not be totally unexpected.

THE FIRST RACE

The afternoon's sport opens with the Big wave Bay Handicap over six furlongs. The probable starters and weights have already been published and my selection for this event is Flirt who will be taken care of by Mr. L. O. Frost, our champion jockey. The other ponies worth watching are Foxbridge, Bonny Dundee and Pacific Hall.

ABLE AMAZON

In the second race Able Amazon should have no difficulty in showing a clean pair of heels to the rest of the field, seeing that he will be in the capable hands of Mr. Frost. In my opinion the second and third places will be occupied by Derby Day and Shooting Star respectively.

JUNK BAY HANDICAP

Junk Bay Handicap (Second Section) will provide us with some excitement. Copper Idol will probably win this race although his jockey has not been named yet. Mr. Black on Belmont Star should follow closely with King's Parade (Mr. Frost) taking third place.

THE AUSTRALIAN PONY

The Australian Pony "Able Amazon" will not be barred from the betting at to-morrow's Extra Race Meeting. Tickets disposed of in the Kwangtung Handicap Sweep exceed 33,000.

THE NOVICES

In the fourth race, Clear Water Bay Handicap, for non-winning stags ridden by novices over five furlongs, the ponies are very evenly matched with Flamingo (Mr. F. S. Lee) as my choice for the first place and High Principle (Mr. Tang) and High West (Mr. Cheape) as the placé ponies.

DAILY DOUBLE

The fifth race, which will no doubt be eagerly awaited as it is the first leg of the Daily Double, will find quite a large field facing the starter. What a Chance will probably be followed by Tilioum (Mr. Frost) and Budge (Mr. Liang). My selection of What a Chance (with Mr. Pih up) is prompted by the fact that this pony is famous for its "flying start" and he should lead the field from the very beginning.

BEST RACE OF DAY?

The sixth race will probably find all the entries accepting and if there is going to be any excitement at all during the afternoon it should be found in this event. Rose Queen, with 157 lbs. to carry, and ridden by Mr. Pih, will be heavily backed for a win although Hettum (Mr. Frost), Macaroni (Mr. Black) and Bright View (Mr. Liang) will all command a good following. Soldier of Germany, which will be

AN OLD FAVOURITE

Providing the second leg of the Daily Double, the seventh race will find many backers and I expect Valorous, an old favourite who will be ridden by Mr. Frost, to win. Jungle Jim (Mr. Liang), High Speed (Mr. Pih) and Soldier of Peace (Mr. Deltz) will very likely finish in the order named.

VAUCLOUSE HANDICAP

The Vauclose Handicap for Australian ponies of any season will provide a keen tussle between Bonniak Star (Frost) and Sautey Face (Pih) as both of them are in the pink of condition and starting at top weight. Atlas, Australian Boy and Streamline are others who will probably go to the gate.</

HOCKEY NOTES

Mamak Tournament

Judging from the amount of enthusiasm displayed at both the meetings held in the last fortnight by the Mamak Hockey Tournament, the coming season promises to be the most successful yet held. I have already dealt at some length with the Annual General Meeting, and the General Committee which met in the Police Library on Wednesday evening, were also responsible for some very interesting points raised.

It is a matter for general regret that Mr. Burlingham has found that owing to his duties, both official and otherwise, he will be unable to fill the post of President to which he was recently elected. His enthusiasm for sport is well-known and he would have been a decided asset. It is pleasing to note, however, that all the other officials have accepted office.

MANY ENTRIES

Quite the most encouraging so far, has been the number of entries received. Despite the fact that there appears to be very little likelihood of any entries from the Senior Service, fourteen Clubs have already signified their intention of participating and there is a very strong possibility that the University will be fielding a team. The following Clubs have definitely entered: Central British Association, 12th Bty. Royal Artillery, Royal Artillery, Royal Corps of Signals, Royal Engineers, Departmental, St. Andrew's Club, Radio Sports Club, Police Europeans, Police Indians, Nomads, Argonauts, United K. I. T. C., and The Indian Mule Corps.

TWO DIVISIONS

Lieut. Hamilton, of the Royal Engineers, raised the question of the advisability of dividing the Tournament into two divisions and after a great deal of discussion this was decided upon. The grading of the teams, a most unenviable task, is to be left in the hands of the Executive Committee and I am quite sure they will do their utmost to do this with the least possible dissatisfaction.

The Executive Committee was brought up to strength with the election of Messrs. R. S. Reed and A. E. P. Guest to represent the Civilian, Gunner Aldridge and Sig. Dove, the Army, and Lt. Young, the Navy.

I must again emphasize how fortunate the Tournament is in securing the services of Capt. Kimm as Chairman. Both he and Mr. Tyler are very hard working officials.

CRICKET

A Drawn Match Hove

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Sept. 3.

The match between Sussex and the South Africans was left drawn at Hove, but the day had its exciting moments. In the first place, Sussex had to fight desperately hard on a wicket affected by rain to avoid a follow-on and, having survived this danger, they attacked the South Africans with such determination that the tables were completely turned. Indeed, in the early afternoon there was just a possibility that the South Africans would be beaten. Although they escaped this Sussex at least had the satisfaction of dismissing them for their lowest score of the tour.

On account of a blank day on Saturday the game was, of course, played under the rules which govern two-day matches, and as the South Africans needed a lead of only 100 runs on the first innings to enforce a follow-on Sussex, who overnight had lost four wickets for 58 runs, were in some danger. Their task, moreover, was made all the more difficult because another heavy shower of rain in the early morning was followed by strong sunshine, and the pitch favoured slow bowlers.

A VALUABLE INNINGS

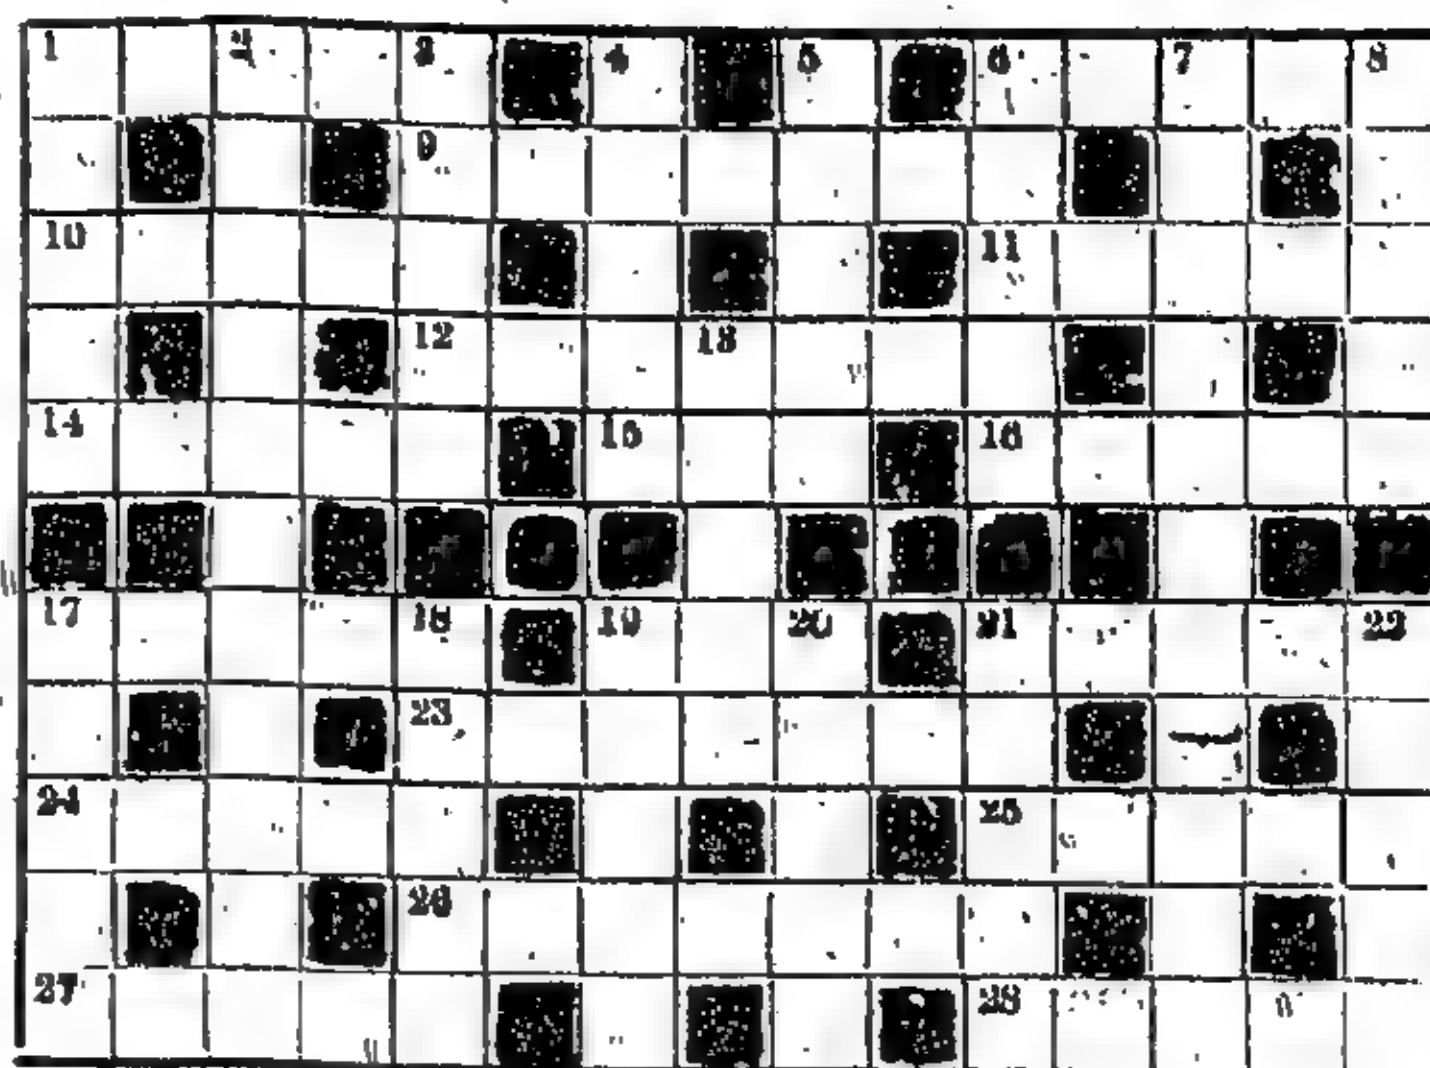

In the circumstances John Langridge, who carried the Sussex batting side on his shoulders, was not inclined to take the slightest risk, but he gave a remarkably fine exhibition of defensive batting. He lost Cornford at 76, but, receiving some support from H. Parks, Langridge went on to complete an invaluable 50. The 100 was passed without further loss, but the bowling of B. Mitchell and R. J. Cripp brought about something of a collapse. Parks was drawn out of his ground by Mitchell and stumped, and a moment later Langridge played a ball which went away with the edge of his bat and was caught in the slips. A. J. Holmes then met with such success that not only did Sussex avoid the follow-on but the South Africans' lead was reduced to the modest one of 68 runs.

Against some really good bowling by Tate, who turned the ball sharply, the South Africans lost their first three wickets so quickly that there were hopes that Sussex would force a win. At a cost of 17 runs Tate took the wickets of Mitchell, E. A. Rowan, and A. D. Nourse, and had Cornford taken a chance of stumping Wade Sussex would have been in a very good position. As it was, however, the South Africans were by no means out of trouble, for when J. Parks and James Langridge took over the attack wickets again began to fall. At 45 Parks bowled E. L. Dalton with a yorker, and so, for the first time in his career, achieved the distinction of making 1,000 runs and taking 100 wickets in a season.

Six runs later James Langridge had Wade caught in the slips and with the dismissal of Langton, who was caught and bowled by J. Parks, the South Africans had lost six wickets for 61 runs. So far as the South Africans were concerned time was now the main factor, and B. Cameron settled down to resign his natural inclination to force the pace. He should have been caught by Tate at mid-on off Langridge but, having survived this, Cameron kept up his end successfully until tea-time. Cameron was then caught by Tate at forward short-leg, but as stumps were being drawn at 6 o'clock Sussex's hopes of forcing a win faded away. Vincent, brightened up the end of the game with some spirited batting and the 51 was his highest score of the season.

RETURN TO STIFFKEY

Ex-Rector Makes A Prophecy

Mr. Harold Davidson thinks he will become rector of Stiffkey again.

After the dismissal of a charge of attempting to commit suicide by fasting, in a sideshow at Central Beach, Blackpool, he returned to his cabinet and stated that he would again fast. As before, he wore pyjamas and lay in a sort of bed at the bottom of a glass-topped cabinet. He said:

"It is four days since I was taken from this cabinet under arrest, and now I have returned to carry on."

"The figure four has always been my lucky number, and I predict that just as I was deprived of my living on October 21, 1932, so within four years from that date, I shall be back in my old parish of Stiffkey."

"I say that that is as certain as that I am back in this cabinet."

I am very fastidious about
my Talcum Powder

After the bath following vigorous exercise we all need a powder that is absolutely smooth and silky. That's why I use Cuticura Talcum. It is the most exquisitely fine powder I've ever used. And the perfume is a wonderful blend—both fragrant and wholesome—it smells so clean and sweet.

The reason why Cuticura Talcum is used by women who are extra particular about their toilet powder is that it has a fineness and purity which is unequalled.

Cuticura is scientifically prepared by a special process—it has the same guaranteed quality of excellence which has made Cuticura Soap famous all over the world. If the skin is overheated and chafed, Cuticura Talcum soothes it at once. Its cool 'satin' softness is like a balm. Use it after bathing—before dancing or strenuous exercise. It absorbs perspiration—you stay sweet, dainty and fresh for hours.

Sold by all Chemists and Stores.

Are you over 40?

Difficult breathing, headaches, dizziness, sleeplessness, lack of appetite and high blood pressure are some of the dreaded symptoms of advancing age. Increasing the amount of minerals in the body is, next to the leading of a regular life, the most logical way to restore undisturbed health.

You can do this easily with Kalzana tablets, because here you have a mineral food that builds up better health in an entirely natural manner.

A well-known physician describing his experience of Kalzana Tablets with 6 patients, writes:

"Kalzana had a very favourable influence. The vitality of the patients improved remarkably, the shortness of breath disappeared and the dizziness, headache, lack of appetite and sleeplessness were conquered."
